

Market Basket

Summertime and cooking is easy with ample supplies of many fruits and vegetables. In some parts of Oregon there's a plentitude of Oregon-grown berries, including RASPBERRIES, BLUEBERRIES, and BOYSENBERRIES. These are delectable eaten fresh. All of the berries freeze well in addition to being great for pies, cobblers, jams and jellies. GRAPE prices are trending down a bit. The Red Flame seedless grape -- sweet, juicy, and colorful -- is becoming increasingly popular. Some local PEACHES are in the markets and there is a record supply of NECTARINES from California. Soft fruits, such as peaches and nectarines, usually travel considerable distance to market. Therefore, they are picked at the firm-ripe stage which means they continue to ripen properly, yet are firm enough to stand traveling without bruising. Usually it's best to buy these fruits two or three days before using and further ripen them at home. Put them in a brown paper bag (to concentrate the ethylene gases) and ripen at room temperature out of direct sunlight. Prices on most melons are a little lighter. They should go down the next week or ten days as new areas get into production. A top quality CANTALOUPE will have uniform netting over the exterior, an overall yellow background color, and a smooth sunken stem end where the vine has been removed. At room temperature ripe cantaloupe will also have a characteristic melon aroma.

AVOCADO supplies are large and prices are reasonable. There is an abundance of local CABBAGE, GREEN BEANS, LEAF LETTUICES, and COOKING GREENS. The quality of WALLA WALLA SWEET ONIONS has improved. Some of the first ones were immature and did not have the sweetness the onions now have.

Oregon Norgold POTATOES are now in the markets. Prices are trending down a bit. TOMATO prices are higher than they were earlier this summer. They should go down when more areas start producing.

You can't beat CHICKEN for versatility. On top of that, chicken is plentiful and frequently featured in many stores. Currently there are some large 4-pound Oregon-grown fryers available. These make for succulent eating when roasted or cooked on the outdoor rotisserie. BEEF is more plentiful than was expected and consequently more stores are featuring beef. Ground beef is a frequent special. In some cases even steaks are featured at lower prices.

Fewer HOGS are coming to market now, which is usual this time of year. Prices have moved up. This is the season when FISH is most plentiful. Silver salmon, a delicious treat, is now available in most markets. Quick cooking and easy to prepare, fish is delicious baked, broiled, fried, or cooked on the grill.

COUNTY FAIR IS COMING SOONER THAN YOU THINK

Less than a month remains till opening date of county fair. 4-H events start on Saturday, August 22, with the 4-H Horse Show. That's new this year ... the 4-H Horse Show now is really a part of the fair action. The popular pig scramble, which has not been done for a number of years, will be back this year, so prospective 4-H members wishing to start a swine project will have their chance to get in the fun and take home the start for a project, too. Pig scramble will be held just before the market sale on Thursday evening. Another addition to the market sale that should create a lot of interest is the sale of animals raised in small animal projects. So far we know there will be rabbits, and possible ducks for sale this year. You'll want to get your bid in early on these. Also new to the fair will be an international booth where you may purchase tickets that may win a quilt made by IFYE alumni and learn all about opportunities through 4-H international programs.

Everyone is encouraged to "be a part of the fair" by exhibiting the products they have made or grown. There are classes for everything at our fair ... or if one thing overlooked in the premium book, classes can be added to accommodate you. Open class, 4-H and FFA ... get ready now. Fair dates are August 25 - 27. Fair Premium books and entry forms are available at the Extension Office, Heppner, and other locations around the county. Entry forms may be picked up and filled out before fair, or they will be available at the fair office when you make your entry to fair.

STATEWIDE 4-H WILDLIFE SPORTS CLINIC OPEN TO ALL YOUTH GROUPS

Such Oregon 4-H projects as fishing, gun safety, and marksmanship and outdoorsmanship will receive new statewide support as the result of the first 4-H wildlife sports clinic scheduled for September at the Oregon 4-H Center near Salem. Arranged by John Abell, 4-H Youth specialist with the Oregon State University Extension Service, in cooperation with the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, the clinic will be held September 10-13. The program is designed for volunteers leading youth in various organizations, such as Boy Scouts, Campfire, etc. who are interested in promoting the wise use of Oregon's wildlife resources.

Goals for the clinic include bringing people together who share an interest in Oregon's outdoor resources, providing an opportunity to become more familiar teaching techniques in wildlife sports, and to create an appreciation for differing views among groups sharing the same resource, Abell notes.

Hikes, "no trace" camping, outdoor survival skill exercises and discussions of how natural resources are managed, are among the activities scheduled.

Participants will spend one day in one of three special workshops. One will focus on the shooting sports including riflery, hunter safety, archery, and bow hunting, the second will concentrate on wildlife appreciation and viewing, and the third will deal with wildlife management techniques.

Among those cooperating with the Extension Service in staging the clinic are the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, Environmental Education Association of Oregon, Defenders of Wildlife, Isaac Walton League, Oregon Rifle and Pistol Association, Audubon Society, and interested private citizens.

Registration materials and additional information about the clinic is available at all county offices of the OSU Extension Service with registration due, August 26. For more information, call 676-9642.

Aug. 1 marks 50th anniversary for State Police

The Oregon State Police department is celebrating 50 years of dedication and service August 1, 1981. The department was formed by a legislative act in 1931. Governor Julius L. Meier announced that the new organization would begin operation August 1, 1931. In addition to enforcing traffic, fish and game, arson, prohibition and narcotic laws, the State Police was charged with the investigation and enforcement of all criminal laws throughout Oregon. The department was created to serve as a rural patrol and to assist local law enforcement agencies. Governor Meier appointed a committee to survey the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Texas Rangers, the State Police of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan and other states that had been highly successful. The state was divided into four districts; Portland, Salem, Medford and Baker with district V being added January 1, 1979 with headquarters in Bend. The original districts were first designated by rivers and highways, but later by counties. Thirty-one patrol stations were established throughout the state. The department has grown from an original complement of 95 men in 1931 to an authorized strength of 936 men and women in 1981. The original 31 patrol stations have increased to 47 stations and outposts in 1981. During its 50 years of existence, there have been only 5 superintendents, Charles P. Pray, June 7, 1931 retired June 1, 1946; H. G. Mason, June 1, 1946 retired May 1, 1966; Holly B. Holcomb, May 1, 1966 assassinated November 25, 1975; Robert R. Fisher, December to December 31, 1978; John C. Williams, January 1, 1979 to present. In 1939, the first State Police Crime Laboratory was set up in Portland. Since that time, satellite crime labs have been established in Pendleton, Eugene, North Bend, Medford and Ontario. In 1941, all fingerprint records and photographs were transferred from the state penitentiary to the State Bureau of Identification and Investigation at general headquarters. The original complement of 95 men in three divisions, traffic criminal investigations and fish and game, has grown to its present 936 men and women in eight divisions, the original three plus communications, crime laboratories, identification bureau, personnel services and administrative services, plus 168 classified employees, who perform dispatch and clerical duties. The Oregon State Police department is one of only seven state level law enforcement agencies in the United States that is not just a highway patrol organization.

Other proceedings pending in Morrow County District Court

On April 4, 1981, the beneficiary sold personal property located on the above described property. Said sale was pursuant to a security agreement between grantor and beneficiary which partially secured the same underlying obligation secured by the trust deed. At the time of the sale the above sums were then owing and delinquent or constituted liens on the real property secured by the trust deed in violation of the terms thereof.

The said grantor has defaulted in his performance of the terms of the trust deed and the obligations secured thereby in that he has failed to pay, when due, the above mentioned obligations and allowed the above mentioned liens to accrue against the real property secured by the Trust Deed.

After sale of the personal property and application of the proceeds, the following amounts remain outstanding and as liens:

- With interest thereon at 9 percent per annum
- Delinquent principal and interest Installments .....$ 249.21 to 4-4-1981
- Advanced for taxes .....$5,184.04

- Advanced for repairs .....$ 69.98 to 4-1-1981
- (Other liens constituting defaults are as set forth above)
- Which are now past due, and delinquent. Grantor's failure just described is the default for which the foreclosure mentioned above is being made.
- By reason of said default, the beneficiary has declared all obligations secured by said trust deed immediately due, and payable, said sums being the following:
- Unpaid principal balance .....$42,056.74 to 4-15-81
- Unpaid interest ..... 153.23 to 4-20-81 (per diem rate $16.94)
