

Expanding Horizons for the 80's; It's our fair

By BIRDINE TULLIS

The Morrow County Fair Board and Fair Committee, working together to provide a community event in which everyone can take pride, offer everyone the opportunity to "Expand Horizons" by participating in the fair.

All members of the board and committee are volunteers... people you know who donate their time and effort to make our county fair an enjoyable, notable event. It is sometimes a thankless job; it is certainly a year around job for the two committees and the secretary (and Extension employees - editor's note). She and the caretaker are the only paid employees. A year of planning and work point to county fair with events this year running from Aug. 22 through 27. But they cannot do it alone ... and it is not their fair ... it is the county's fair! Superintendents volunteer their time and effort. They, the board, and committee provide the opportunity ... citizen participation provides the exhibits.

The Morrow County Fair is a County Fair. There's a place for everything that is produced or made in the county.

People come to look, to enjoy, to participate. The County Fair is a family fair, something for everyone. You'll see the 4-H'ers and FFA boys and girls; you'll see the senior adults of the county. They hope they will see you ... and your exhibits! It is not the Fair Board's fair ... it is yours. If you want your fair to be a success ... it is up to you!

PMH Aux., OLA to sponsor blood pressure booth

As a special service this year at the Morrow County Fair, the Pioneer Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, in conjunction with the Oregon Lung Association, will test your blood pressure free of charge.

Special service, done by Auxiliary and OLA volunteers, will be in the community booth section of the fair. The booth will also feature material about your heart and lungs distributed by the OLA.

Also at the booth, the Auxiliary will kick off their ticket sales for a nurse doll to be auctioned off as a fundraiser for a new patio for the Pioneer Memorial Hospital Nursing Home.

4-H'ers show smarts at Fashion Revue; 2 shows in 1

By BIRDINE TULLIS

The news in fashions this fall for the younger generation will be shown Tuesday at 8 p.m. on August 25 at the 4-H Fashion Revue. There will be boys, as well as girls, modeling their favorite outfits. The clothing and knitting members will be showing their smarts about sewing it and saving money, as well as having good quality garments. The kids know how to expand their wardrobes, and have more variety by sewing! They may be fourth graders, or they may be high school age, but they have learned their lessons well. They know that by sewing they can have individualized, personalized, one of a kind garments that fit their style and their shape.

The Revue is really two fashion shows in one. The garments sewn or knit by the members, and the Favorite Outfit. In favorite outfit contest they model the clothing, or outfits they enjoy wearing most. It may be their blue jeans, or it might be a wedding gown. They are always imaginative, and fun to see.

Fashion Revue will again be in the main pavilion at the fair grounds, with the models wending their way among the exhibit tables. The audience gets a good, close look at each model as they parade through the hall.

Before the public show, all models have shown their garments to the judge and have received a white, red, or blue rating for their modeling skills, the choice of the garment and style for the individual, sewing skills, grooming and poise.

The fashion show will be narrated by two former 4-H members, Todd Harrison and Mari Evans. Special entertainment will be provided during the event by 4-H members, Kevin Hughes and Trent Harrison, who have taken up clowning as an extra 4-H activity!

The fashion show is the big event for 4-H clothing and knitting members. They invite the public to attend and view their accomplishments.

Meanwhile, out in the barns happiness is a steer, a pig

By BIRDINE TULLIS

To some 4-H or FFA members, happiness at county fair is ... a steer, a pig, a lamb, or perhaps a goat. Those are the projects out in the barns. Out in the barn is where you see some of the most interesting shows at fair! They may be the scheduled events such as showmanship or judging confirmation. Or they may be the kids preparing their animals for showing.

Herdsmanship is an important contest at fair of which the public is seldom aware. Clubs and individuals must keep their stalls or pens and the area around them clean and presentable at all times. Animals, too, must be kept in top-notch condition during their stay at the fair. Stalls and pens are inspected at regular intervals by the herdsman judge ... but the kids never know when that judge is coming! The blue ribbon award in herdsman ship means the whole club was working to present their project to the public; a team effort to keep everything spic and span.

Be sure to include a trip through the barns; there's a lot to be seen during the shows, or even between! Visit with the members, check them out to see what they know about the cost of raising a beef for market, or animal health, or most any topic. They are learning all about that in 4-H and FFA, and should be happy to share the information.
