

EOSC Homecoming October Fest slated

Promising an expanded schedule of free entertainment, the 1981 Eastern Oregon State College Homecoming and October Folk Festival will open festivities at noon, Friday, October 17.

"There are quite a few changes in the event this year and I think they will make this one of the best Homecomings in some time," said Student Activities Director Yvonne Tagge.

"Last year everyone enjoyed the free Main Stage Entertainment so much that this year we decided to cancel the big concert and put all our resources into a series of individual acts which will perform almost continuously throughout the celebration," she says.

So far Tagge's line up includes Blue Mountain Old Time Fiddlers, the folk band Stone Ground, Commotion Dance Troupe, Le Danse Oriental, Germania Folk Dancers, polka band and several student groups.

"We've also added a free street dance Friday night, 8 p.m., with the rock group Blue Mountain Band. If the weather is bad, which it unfortunately is quite often," said Tagge. "The group will simply move inside and give a concert."

Activities will center in the area of the Bavarian Tent, which will house much of the entertainment and where guests will be able to enjoy German foods and beverages. Nearby will be fair booths offering games, arts, crafts and other foods.

"With things like the rocket launch, parade, booths and Children's Paradise the Folk Fest is really a family event," said Tagge. Children's Paradise, sponsored by the La Grande Branch of the American Association of University Women, will provide arts and crafts projects for children aged four to 10 for a modest fee from 4 to 8 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday.

Alumni events have also been expanded. This year Alumni will again find the popular Alumni Happy Hour in the Bavarian Tent, Friday from 5 to 6 p.m. but there will also be gatherings for former rodeo and chemistry club members and for former student body presidents on Saturday morning.

The College celebration also features two ceremonies to honor recent changes on the campus. On Friday at 3 p.m. the new bronze sculpture in the Amphitheatre area will be dedicated. On Saturday at 10 a.m. the Administration Building will be renamed in honor of the college's first president, Harvey Inlow. At the same time the Classroom Building will officially be renamed in honor of Amanda Zabel, an early English professor. All three ceremonies are open to the public.

One big change this year will be the Homecoming Parade which has been moved to Saturday at 12:30. According to Tagge, the parade will include the La Grande and Baker High School Bands, the Walla Walla High School Junior ROTC Drill Team, several floats, vintage cars and special entries. She said the parade would begin on Adams Avenue, proceed through downtown to 4th Street, take 4th Street to G Avenue and then take G Avenue to the EOSC Stadium where the EOSC Mounties and University of San Francisco football teams will meet in the traditional 1:30 p.m. Homecoming game.

More free entertainment is scheduled for after the game.
