Scouts accepting bids on wood, franklin stove

Area Boy and Cub Scouts are accepting sealed bids on a trailer load of wood and a franklin stove, to be awarded at their garage sale Thursday night, Oct. 29, at Ron McDonald Chevrolet in Heppner. Bids may be placed in the box provided at McDonalds Chevrolet until 8 p.m. Thursday, when the bids will be opened.

said a Scouts spokesperson. "We reserve the right to reject any or all bids," she added. The high bid, if accepted, will be tax deductible to the bidder, said the spokesperson. The garage sale is to be held in conjunction with the Heppner Merchants' Moonlight Sale.

What's Your Opinion?

"Do you think the United States should continue to import lumber from Canada?"
"Under the local conditions, no, I don't think they should," said O.W. Cutsforth, Heppner.

Yes, you can afford a Steiger.

When you think of Steiger, chances are you think of the toughest, hardest-pulling 4WD tractors around—and with good reason. But no one ever said the best had to be the most expensive.

Take the Steiger Bearcat. It's the smallest Steiger we make, but it's still loaded with big features. Like Steiger's special comfort cab, outboard planetary axes, and solid steel frame construction. And a draw-bar horsepower efficiency ratio that nobody in its class can top.

Plus it's a Steiger. Which means you get every bit of the Steiger know-how and craftsmanship that have made Steiger the four-wheel drive leader since 1959.

Think what 225 horsepower can do for your farm.

Then think about this: horsepower for horsepower, a Steiger is one of the most economical tractors you can own.

So if you think owning a Steiger is out of your reach, take a look at the Bearcat. You'll be pleasantly surprised.

And if you can afford a Steiger, there's no reason to settle for less.
