Heppner banker awarded prize for futures market profit

By BOB COSTA
Morrow Co. Extension Agent

Ken Miller, manager of the Heppner branch of First Interstate Bank, was awarded a $20 cash prize for making the most profit in the futures market, while participating in a hedging workshop. Miller donated the prize to 4-H IFYE, and international youth exchange program.

Miller was one of twenty-eight Morrow County farmers, ranchers, and bankers who participated in the Extension Service three-part hedging workshop. Each person was given $20,000 in computer money to trade on the futures market over a period of three weeks.

Miller made $13,885 profit in the April feeder cattle market. Joe McElligott was not far behind in realizing $9,831 profit in the wheat, lumber and cattle markets. Charlie Anderson made $4,902 in the wheat market.

Not everyone invested as well. Of twenty active traders, only six showed a profit. The other fourteen lost from $700 to $7,000.

The workshop participants were speculating on the futures market as a way to become familiar with futures trading. The purpose of the workshop wasn't to learn about speculating, but rather to learn about hedging. Farmers and ranchers can hedge on the futures market to help reduce the risks of selling wheat, cattle and other commodities.

Co. students to compete in poster and essay contest

A poster and essay contest, sponsored by the Oregon Veterinary Medical Association Auxiliary, and titled "Pets are Partners," is now underway in local junior high schools.

Open to all seventh and eighth graders, the contest will feature 500 word essays and 12 by 18 inch posters about their pet as a partner.

Students may enter one or both contests and the deadline for entry is March 30.

Heppner, Lone and Irrigon schools will be participating in the contest, and three winners will be chosen from each school. First place prize in both categories is $10, second place is $5 and third place is an honorable mention.

All prize winners will be eligible to have their poster or essay judged in district contest, with the winners of district going on to state competition. State winners will have their work displayed at the 1982 Oregon State Fair.

Essay and poster contest rules and more information can be obtained from local schools.

Chamber hosts speaker

By JUSTINE WEATHERFORD

A long-time director of the Lions Clubs of Oregon, Ernie Sharp, came from John Day on Monday, March 1 to attend the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Heppner where he explained the Oregon Lions Eye Bank had recently enlisted Heppner mortician Pat Sweeney as a qualified official. Sharp was introduced to the Chamber by Terry Hughes, president of the Heppner Lions Club, before he showed a film, passed out explanatory literature and recounted some of his personal experiences in working with the eye transplant program. Mrs. Sharp accompanied her husband and was also introduced. She told persons sitting near her that along with her husband she had worked in their photo shop in John Day for many years. The Sharps sold that business several years ago, but Mr. Sharp still has a picture-framing shop in the community.

The pamphlet "Sight, A most precious gift" contains this quotation from Helen Keller, "There is no lovelier way to thank God for your sight than by lending a helping hand to someone in the dark." There is a space in which to indicate one's donation of (A) eyes only, or (B) any needed organs, etc., which should be filled out and carried on one's person. This form is a legal document under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act.
