Linfield students to explore High Desert

A Photography Safari will be led by Peter Schuette to the High Desert of Eastern Oregon May 9 to 15, stated a release from Linfield College. Throughout the week students will explore the Steens Mountain and Alvord Desert area in the vast expanse of Harney County. Homesteads of early Oregon pioneers, thousands of resident and migratory birds, and herds of wild antelope and Mule Deer are a few of the features of this area. The photographer will fine a varied terrain from the desert plants to dwarf alpine plants in the high country.

Peter Schuette, workshop leader, is the best known photographic artist in Belgium, Holland, France and Germany and has just published Country Life, a pictorial book about Holland. He is a graduate of the Rochester Institute of Technology, has worked with Ansel Adams and conducted photography workshops in Yosemite, England, France, The Netherlands and Wales. For more information contact the Linfield College Continuing Education Program 472-4121 ext. 269 or toll free 1-800-452-4176.
