

'The Northwest Woman' to be presented in Heppner July 11

"The Northwest Woman," a Eugene-based touring production that dramatizes the history of early Oregon, will be presented in Heppner on Sunday, July 11, announced a spokesperson. The performance is set for 2 p.m. at the Heppner Junior High Auditorium, 414 N. Elder. It is open to the public without charge, she said.

Combining historical fact and dramatic monologues, "The Northwest Woman" introduces the audience to an Oregon pioneer experience through the lives of four 19th century women.

The play, which first toured Oregon in 1980, is narrated by Edwin Bingham, a University of Oregon history professor who specializes in Northwest history. Eugene actress Jane VanBoskirk, the only cast member, performs four monologues written by Eugene playwright Dorothy Velasco who also authored "An Evening with Thomas Condon."

The monologues portray female pioneers Narcissa Whitman, one of the first white women in the Pacific Northwest; Elizabeth Smith Geer, a pioneer who migrated to Oregon in 1847; Margaret Jewett Bailey, a missionary and the first novelist in the Northwest; and Bethenia Owens-Adair, one of the first female doctors in the Northwest, said the spokesperson.

A continuous slide show depicts the people and places featured in the play and traditional fiddle music also helps the audience capture the flavor of the period, she continued. The Heppner performance is supported by several Morrow County organizations and by a grant from the Oregon Committee for the Humanities.

Many new books in at Ione Public Library

Many new books have arrived at the Ione City Library and the summer hours have been extended to Tuesday through Friday from 3 to 5 p.m., announced a library spokesperson. Some new books for adults include "A Donesbury Special," by Gary Trudeau; "Charles and Diana, the Prince and Princess of Wales," by Trevor Hall; "Horses" (a history of breeds), by Jane Burton; "Jane Fonda's Workout Book," by Jane Fonda; "The Giants" (Russia and America), by Richard J. Barnett; "The Man from St. Petersburg" (a story of intrigue), by Ken Follet; "America's Spectacular Northwest," by the National Geographic Society; "No Bad Dogs, the Woodhouse Way," by Barbara Woodhouse, trainer; "The One Tree," by Stephen R. Donaldson; "Friday" (science fiction), by Robert Heinlein; "Number 1" (autobiography), by Billy Martin and Peter Golenbock; "Eden Burning," by Belya Plain; "The Prodigal Daughter," by Jeffrey Archer; "Living, Loving & Learning" (non-fiction), by Leo Buscaglia, Ph.D.; "Noble House," by James Clavell; "One in a Lifetime," by Danielle Steel; "The Lord God Made Them All," by James Herriot; "Dark Before the Rising Sun," by Laurie McBain; and "Firefox" (now being made into a movie), by Craig Thomas, reported the spokesperson.

There are also many new children's books available at the library, and a special story hour is held there each Thursday from 3:30 to 4 p.m., with local women as story tellers, concluded the spokesperson.

Soc. Security benefits to increase

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments will increase automatically by 7.4 percent beginning with the July checks, announced Thomas D. McPherson, branch manager of the Social Security Administration's Pendleton office.

This means that a retired worker under Social Security now receiving a benefit equal to the maximum monthly payment of $679 will get $729, and a couple now receiving $1018.50 will get $1093 in the July check. An individual receiving the maximum federal SSI benefit of $264.70 will get $284.30, and a couple now receiving $397 will get $426.40 beginning with the July SSI check, he explained.

Under the law, Social Security and SSI checks increase automatically each year if the Consumer Price Index rises by three percent or more over a specified period. Through this mechanism, the purchasing power of Social Security and SSI recipients is maintained despite inflation. This means there will be an equivalent increase of 7.4 percent in the July check.

The increase in Social Security benefits will be reflected in the checks to about 36 million beneficiaries. The SSI increase will go to about 6 million recipients, McPherson said.

The estimated fiscal year 1983 cost of the Social Security benefits increase to the trust

Vo-Ag instructor honored

Dave Hall, Vo. Ag instructor at Wallowa High School, son of Gene and Harriet Hall of Heppner, was honored with several awards at a recent Oregon Vocational Agriculture Teachers' Banquet. Hall received a Three Minute Award and a Thirty Minute Award for having articles published inside and outside the state of Oregon, said a spokesperson.

For the second year in a row, Hall was presented the Sperry-New Holland Agribusiness Career Exploration Program Award for having the Vo. Ag program that is doing the most in the state to make students aware of agri-business careers. Most of the application for this award was centered around an independent studies program and senior ag management trip, both of which Hall has incorporated into the Wallowa program, the spokesperson said. Highlighting the awards was the first place finish in a new area for Oregon. The Ideas Unlimited Contest. This contest found ag teachers from across the state presenting unique teaching methods to the 120 ag teachers assembled at the conference. Hall's technique for resource reading and use of periodicals was judged as the best, the spokesperson said. Hall's Ideas Unlimited and Career Exploration application will be sent on for regional and national competition. Hall is starting his eighth year as the vo. ag instructor at Wallowa. This past year found the Wallowa Future Farmers of America Chapter to be selected as the top chapter in the state of Oregon, the spokesperson concluded.

Folklorist to perform in Heppner

Twilo Scofield

Folklorist Twilo Scofield of Eugene will appear in Heppner July 12 to share some of the cultural legacy that Oregon's early settlers have left the state, and to learn from her audiences, the stories, customs and traditions that are still alive in their communities today, announced a spokesperson for the performance.

The event is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church. A social hour is planned immediately after the performance.

Her program, "The Oregon Frontier: A Living Heritage," is funded by the Oregon Committee for the Humanities and is part of their Humanities Chataouqua '82 summer series. The program will include material which Ms. Scofield has gleaned over the years from journals, diaries and oral history interviews. The stories and songs which she intersperses throughout her presentation illustrate the struggles of the old settler, the logger, the farmer, the minority person, the housewife and in Ione

An Ione Preschool Story Hour is being held at the Ione Public Library each Thursday from 3:30 to 4 p.m., announced a spokesperson. The story hours will be held until July 29, she added.

Local mothers are taking turns conducting the story hours and anyone interested in volunteering is asked to contact Laura Broderick, 422-7524 or Katherine Lindstrom, 422-7192.

other characters who helped from the cultural mosaic that is Oregon. The songs are sung to the accompaniment of traditional instruments, continued the spokesperson.

For the past fifteen years, Scofield has traveled throughout the U.S. performing at colleges and folk festivals. An accomplished musician, she performs on keyboard instruments, autoharp, hammered dulcimer, guitar and psaltery. Her childhood years spent with folk musicians and her years of collecting folk songs is illustrated by her abundant repertoire of traditional songs and tunes which range from tender love ballads and tragic narratives to cowboy songs and bawdy Irish ditties. Scofield is the author of a book, "An American Sampler - Our traditions in Song, History, Foodways, and Customs." She has appeared on radio and television talk shows and has made musical sound tracks for three documentary films, said the spokesperson.

The performance is free to the public, and is sponsored locally by the Heppner-Ione branch of the American Association of University Women.

Some of the early names for movies included Kineopticon, cinematograph, nickelodeon and biograph.

PAY PHONE USERS ARE IN FOR A CHANGE.

Unfortunately, there are some people out there who'd rather not pay for their phone calls. In fact, they'd rather have you pay for them.

So we're implementing a plan that will help eliminate telephone fraud. Here's how it works:

Starting July 1, 1982, when you call from a coin phone and want to bill another number (a third party billing), the operator will call that number for approval. Which means, of course, that if no one's home, or the line is busy, your call can't be completed using third party billing.

But that doesn't mean you can't complete your call. You still have the option of calling collect, paying for the call with coins or using a Bell System Calling Card.

When you use a Calling Card, you'll save 45¢ in Washington and 75¢ in Oregon over collect, third party or other calls that require operator assistance. Just dial yourself. To get your free Calling Card, simply fill out and send us the coupon.

True, the new third party billing procedure may be a little less convenient, but it'll save everyone money.

Everyone, that is, except the people who'd rather not pay for their own calls.
