

Local V. F. W. and auxiliary members receive awards

Jim and Bev Launer of Heppner were delegates for Morrow County Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary Post No. 4184 at a state convention held in Salem June 17 through 20, announced a spokesperson.

The Launers joined other Oregon members on the last evening of the convention for a joint installation of state officers for the coming year. Donald L. Reed from Clackamas and Thelma Bushnell of Myrtle Point were installed as state commander and state president of the V.F.W. and V.F.W. Auxiliary, said the spokesperson.

The state convention, held each year, marks the end of a hard year's work on the many projects the organization members participate in. Many awards are given and those from the local post, No. 4184, earning awards included chairman Millie Breeding, first place in hospital donations received a plaque and citation; chairman Alberta Johannes, first place in cancer aid and research donations received a plaque and citation; chairman Lorena Shuman, third place citation for youth activities; and chairman Rita Bergstrom, a citation for safety programs. Citations were also received for junior girls units, community activities, membership, rehabilitation and voice of democracy. Many other members of the local post also worked hard to help the chairmen receive the awards, said the spokesperson.

Post No. 4184 and its auxiliary meet the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. (new time). The auxiliary meets at the Columbia Basin Electric Co-op Building and the V.F.W. at the old library building, the spokesperson concluded.

First Christian plans Vacation Bible School

An all-new program has been prepared by the First Christian Church in Heppner for Vacation Bible School, to be held August 2 through 6. Come, Follow Jesus is the theme for the school, to be held each weekday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Classes will be offered for beginners, ages four through five, through fourth grade.

A back-to-basics approach to Christian living is offered in VBS. Students will be challenged and involved through such activities as song time, Bible study, visual demonstrations, classroom interaction, craft making, and many other innovative methods in keeping with the theme, said a spokesperson.

The challenging lessons are centered on the extraordinary power of Jesus as He taught His apostles, transforming the lives of ordinary persons, she stated.

There will be a closing program and open house on Friday evening, Aug. 6 at 7:30 p.m. for all parents and friends. Each child in the school will participate.

All children of the community are welcome. For further information, phone 676-9209. A pre-registration day is planned for July 31 from 10 to 11 a.m. at the church parsonage, 275 N. Gale St.

What's Your Opinion?

Question: "Do you approve of the killing of about 1,500 deer in the Florida Everglades?"

"I think they should take them if they're going to starve to death," said Faye Foster, 49 of Heppner. "The way the economy is, people need the food. It's better to utilize what products we can, rather than let them go to waste."

DMV schedule

Gene Murty, manager of the Heppner Department of Motor Vehicles office, will attempt to keep the office open on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the month of July, but the office may close on any day in July without notice after July 12, announced a department spokesperson.

The Heppner manager will work in Hermiston on Mondays and Fridays during July. And any other day that the Hermiston office is short-staffed will find the Heppner office closed.

People who need held at the Heppner office should call the office before making a trip, even on Tuesdays and Thursdays during July, the spokesperson concluded.

Wallowa Vo-Ag teacher wins award

Dave Hall, son of Gene and Harriet Hall of Heppner, and vocational agriculture teacher at Wallowa High School has been notified that he has been named one of the six regional winners of the 1982 NVATA Agri-business Career Exploration Award. The awards are sponsored by Sperry New Holland, New Holland, Pennsylvania in cooperation with the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association (NVATA). The NVATA is a national professional organization representing more than 10,000 vocational educators in agriculture-agri-business throughout the United States, said a spokesperson.

The award recognizes teachers who have designed and implemented a course of study emphasizing occupational orientation and stressing career opportunities in production agriculture and agribusiness occupations. The winners of the award are vocational agricultural teachers whose interests in their students and American agriculture motivated them to devise and conduct strong local innovative career exploration programs, the spokesperson said.

Sperry New Holland will provide each regional award winner air transportation, hotel lodging, and a meal per diem to attend the NVATA National Convention in St. Louis, Missouri, December 3-7, 1982. Award winners will each receive a plaque during the convention to commemorate the award, the spokesperson concluded.

Ione Garden Club meets, learns about cacti

The Ione Garden Club met at the home of Kathy Tellechea with Dorothy Burchain and Joyce Buchanan as hostesses on July 14.

Mrs. Tellechea told the group about raising cacti. She has seventy of the some seven hundred varieties. She stated that all cacti are succulents, but not all succulents are cacti. Succulent means that the plant stores moisture in its stems and leaves. One of the greatest problems of raising cacti is root rot, caused by too much watering. They only need watering once every two weeks in the spring and summer and once every four weeks during winter. Most cacti thrive at average house temperature but need direct sunlight. They should not be misted or sprayed. Fertilizing may be done in spring and summer with something like oxygen plus (1/2 strength). Cacti should be planted in a mixture of half sand and half planting mixture in a shallow pot with a drainage hole in the bottom. The plants grow well if slightly root bound. To propagate cacti, one may break off the new shoots and plant in soil, or by cutting off the top of some varieties, letting it heal and then planting it.

The August meeting will be at the home of Helen Martin, with Loree Hubbard presenting a program on peonies.

Extension recipes from p. 8

Recipe II

1 gallon zucchini squash (chunk, peeled or grated)
3 cups sugar
46 oz. can pineapple juice
1 1/2 cup lemon juice

Combine all ingredients in a large kettle. Bring to a boil and simmer 20 minutes. Pour into clean, hot canning jars, leaving 1/2 inch head space. Adjust lids and process in a boiling water bath 20 minutes.

Recipes that have posed problems in other states have had a lower proportion of lemon juice, notes Mrs. Hawkins. Research at Purdue University tested 443 jars of home canned zucchini-pineapple with the added lemon juice and found them all to be safe, she concluded.
