

Mustangs beaten by Tiger-Scotts

By GLENN SMITH

The Heppner Mustangs traveled to Athena on Friday, Sept. 10, to play the Weston-McEwen Tiger-Scotts, but after four quarters of action the Mustangs came away defeated.

Les Payne, coach for the Mustangs, commented "Weston-McEwen will probably be the team to beat in the league. They may be even better than what I thought they would be."

Heppner fought hard through the first quarter and kept the Tiger-Scotts from scoring. But, in the second quarter, things began to fall apart and by half-time the score was 13 to zero in favor of Weston-McEwen.

During the following third and fourth quarters problems kept plaguing the Mustangs and by the end of the game the Tiger-Scotts had a victory sewn up with a score of 27 - 0. Although Weston-McEwen only completed four passes in the game, each one was costly. Coach Payne stated "Heppner's problems were caused by inconsistency. On offense, the first few plays would get good yardage and then the whole thing would cave in. Defense did the same thing. Holding Weston-McEwen to third down situations and then flubbing up." Payne went on to comment that "The Mustang varsity is basically an inexperienced team and this accounts for the mental mistakes and inconsistency in the early part of a season."

Coming up, the Heppner Mustangs will square off against the Sherman Co. Huskies in a free for all on Friday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m.

Coach Payne is looking forward to the game. "We are going to work on tackling, consistency, and eliminating mistakes. We are going to be ready for them." His comments on what to expect from Sherman Co. were "Offensively, they show running the option, and they pass the ball a bit. I'm concerned with containing Cole's (a Sherman Co. player). He has a lot of speed. Defensively, I expect both odd and even defenses. Both our teams are comparable in size."

Lion's to hold golf tourney Sunday

Local golfers are reminded of the Heppner Lions Club Men's Golf Tournament this Sunday at Willow Creek Country Club. Activities begin at 8 a.m., said John Edmundson, a coordinator of the event.

Any man interested in participating is asked to call Edmundson, 676-5177, or 989-8702.

Exhibitors are asked to pick up their entries at their earliest convenience.

BMCC fall term schedules available

Blue Mountain Community College fall term schedules were mailed out last week and are also available at local stores, announced Nancy Brownfield, BMCC coordinator.

In Heppner, schedules may be picked up at Central Market, Murray Rexall Drugs and at the Heppner Public Library.
Lexington residents may get a schedule from Del's Market and in Ione, they are available at Bristow's Market.

Schedules may also be obtained through Brownfield, 676-5039.

UO Salmon Fishers Exhibit on display in Pendleton

More than 50 artifacts, including a beaded saddlebag, fishing and hunting gear, a canoe bailer and original Lewis and Clark journal reproductions, will be displayed in Pendleton in a free University of Oregon exhibit.

The new traveling "The Salmon Fishers: native Life on the Columbia at the Time of Lewis and Clark," will run from Monday, September 13 to Friday, October 15 at U.S. National Bank, Pendleton Branch. The show is sponsored by the U.S. National Bank of Oregon and the U.O. Museum of Natural History through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information, call U.S. Bank at 276-7311.

The slice-of-time exhibit draws extensively from the original journals of the Lewis and Clark expedition that tell of daily life, appearance and traditions of the many native groups the company encountered," said Betsy Hennings, exhibit coordinator.

The Columbia River was the lifeline of all the native peoples who lived along its shores, she said. For centuries, native lifeways depended on the river for fishing, trading and transportation.

The Salmon Fishers exhibit recounts the Lewis and Clark journey from the Snake River to the Pacific Ocean. Visitors will better understand the richness and variety of native traditions and lifeways that have endured for centuries along the Columbia River, Hennings said.

The exhibit includes five major units: the Lewis and Clark Expedition; the Columbia Plateau; Cultures in Transition, the Celilo Falls; Crossroads of Cultures; the Chinook; People of the Lower Columbia; and Two Centuries of Change: the Columbia River since Lewis and Clark.

Some 50 artifacts are displayed along with photographs, illustrations and descriptive excerpts, maps and sketches from the original journals of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

Designer for the exhibit is Jan Coleman, interior architect and fiber artist, who designed earlier traveling exhibits for the U.O. museum. Consultants for the project include archaeologists C. Melvin Aikens and Richard Pettigrew, an ethnologist Theodore Stern, as well as Native American consultants Esther Stutzman and Rob Collier.

Sparrow is the name of many small, common birds. The name comes from an Anglo-Saxon word "spearwa" which, it is believed, was a general term for all small birds.

Another ace is chalked up at W.C.C.C.

Aces are becoming common-places at Willow Creek Country Club. Doug Dubuque of Heppner was the latest to accomplish the feat, holing out his tee-shot on number two on Friday, September 3.

Doug used a six-iron, watched the ball hit in front of the green and roll until it disappeared. Although he was playing by himself, Doug Smith, who was playing number seven, witnessed the removal of the ball from the cup. This was Dubuque's first hole-in-one.
