Right for striking

To the editor:

I would like to express my feelings about the football strike. I think the NFL players are absolutely right for striking, they are all underpaid and they should ask for twice as much as they are now. I am really enjoying being able to watch regular programs on the television

Curious statement

To the editor

Last week's paper contained a curious statement under the road department report, concerning roads in the aftermath of last Sunday's storm: "____ all roads were passable if care was taken." Storm conditions render any traffic except four wheel drives from negotiating the detour through a stubble field around a washed-out cattle crossing on our road.

Farmers' tax dollars should return to them in the form of passable roads. But for over two years, this section of road has never received a completed patching job. Knowing how this has added to our own vehicle costs. I'm sure this has added considerably to the maintenance of the school bus which must negotiate this route

In light of the economy, perhaps we should return to

To the editor

Oregon's Senator Bob Packwood, recently led a successful filibuster on Capitol Hill, and kept Senator Helm's abortion restriction legislation from being heard and voted on in the Senate.

The piece of legislation in question was viewed by many as a sane and rational attempt to curb what has become an epidemic of death in our society. The Helm's legislation was designed to limit federal funding of abortions. and to expedite a Supreme Court review of abortion legislation. Indications were that there just might have been driving cattle to market or winter pastures or perhaps farm with horses to avoid usage of roads for trucking. If shopping at home is vital to the town's economy, one needs public road access, though we again might have to hitch up

A rancher with diversion ditches has to maintain same or they serve no purpose in preventing erosion. The same is true concerning the resurfacing of the Sand Hollow Road from Three-mile. The time and vards of gravel used would have been considerably less if grader ditches were maintained to handle run-off.

Also, I'm concerned with safety, since the county crews often do not use construction signs in areas where visibility is limited.

Letters To The Editor

Not Reagan's recession

To the editor

Jimmy Carter, when president, hurriedly built onto the biggest deficit in the history of this government with his policy of big government, bid spending, big taxes, etc. And, in the face of non-stop infla tion, plus everything that comes with it, he turned to the American people (via TV media) and said, "Stop spending money, stop using oil, etc. or I can cause a recession and I will" - unquote - and he did

It's not Reagan's recession.

While the liberal Democrats are saving it's "Reagan's recession," the liberal House of Representatives is fighting the battle of a lifetime to stop Reagan's programs for recovery, constantly keeping the thought permeating through out the country thath "Rea gan's programs don't work."

The TV news media is constantly attacking President Reagan and other conservative leaders while their efforts and accomplishments are ignored or obscured by criticism. Reagan is not allowed to communicate with the American people as he would like

because of the heavy propa ganda barrage by the hostile networks

Many liberal newspapers and other publications are spewing their poison against conservative government and its leaders across the land. No government can have vital strength without the people. When conservative government is attacked, our Constitution of the United States of America and our freedom is under attack

We as a nation were on the edge of an abyss when we as a people voted in conservative. constitutional leadership in the presidency of the United States and in the Senate in 1980 There's a conservative mood in this country that won't be denied. But if we don't remove the liberals from our government, substantially in the November 1982 election. we will have to work harder to gain less thereafter.

Lack of space (only) keeps me from lending more credibility to my statements

Sincerely Georgia Hildebrant Telephone 963-4347

Packwood tactics questioned

enough votes to see its passage. Concerned groups from across America had worked long and hard to have their day on the Senate floor.

But alas, our ewn Senator Packwood decided that the constitutional process was not valid this time, since its outcome might be counter to his personal views. Hence, the filibuster led by him. "Our" Senator decided that he not only wanted his ideas to rule, but he decided to deny the right of his opposition to even be heard. In my view, his actions were un-American, unethical and a prostitution of the constitutional intention of the democratic process.

Senator Packwood forgot that he is "our representaand that means all of us, even those who are on the other side of this particular issue. I think Senator Packwood has a right to be heard. Too bad he doesn't feel the same about me and thousands of Oregonians like me

Some who read this no doubt with Senator Pack wood's position on this particular issue. But what about the next time? Will you want a chance for your views to be heard when you disagree with the Senator?

When "our" Senator Packwood decided to play dictator. he decided that his view was THE view. No debate. No vote. No compromise. It was his way or no way.

I wonder how Senator Packwood would treat Solidarity in Poland, if he happened to be on the side of the military junta" His behavior leads me to believe things wouldn't be much different than they are. Is this the kind of "representation" Oregon needs in

Thanks for the help

To the editor:

On Saturday, Sept. 25, I chaired a Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon at the fairgrounds. I'd like to thank the community people, businesses and schools for their help with money donations, refreshments and announcements

The turn out was less than I hoped for but the enthusiasm and generosity of those who did participate and help out is greatly appreciated. If anyone has suggestions as to how we as a community could improve the participation let me know. I feel it's a worthwhile cause and I'd be willing to chair the event Thank you.
