OSU plans Beaver Open House January 29

Oregon State University will hold its annual Beaver Open House on Saturday, Jan. 29, for high school seniors and community college students who plan to enroll at OSU next year, announced the University.

The orientation day for prospective students and their parents annually attracts thousands to the campus, a spokesperson said.

This year's program will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Gill Coliseum. A 30-minute general orientation meeting will be followed by student visits to their "first choice" academic area. Visits to second and third choice fields of study are planned in the afternoon.

During an extended lunch period, briefings are scheduled in the Memorial Union on admission requirements and procedures, costs and financial aid prospects, student activities, the honors program, helps for the handicapped and ROTC offerings. Campus tours also will be conducted from 11:30 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. when the program ends. Franz Haun, director of new student programs, is coordinator.

'Oregon's Children' letter series offered by Extention

Fun, fascinating and frustrating are all words used by parents to describe their preschool boy or girl and their efforts to help their child grow and develop, says Dawn C. Hawkins, Oregon State University extension agent in Umatill and Morrow counties.

"Parents of preschoolers have a lot of questions about such topics as discipline, teaching their child about money and about how parents themselves should act," Ms. Hawkins adds.

People aren't born knowing how to be good parents. They learn on the job, and they learn best without pressure, she says.

With these thoughts in mind, the Oregon State University Extension Service has developed "Oregon's Children" letters for parents of preschoolers to give parents information they can study and practice at home.

"Oregon's Children," a series of six letters for parents of preschoolers, is designed to help parents answer some of the concerns they have about raising a child in the three-to-six age bracket.

The series will be available to Oregon families with preschool children beginning in mid-February. Registrations are now being accepted at the county extension offices in Heppner, Pendleton, Hermiston and Milton-Freewater.

"The preschool years can be difficult for both parent and child," adds Marcelle Straatman, OSU extension human development specialist, "because youngsters are becoming individuals who are starting to test limits and expand their world."

At the same time, parents are apt to swing from "being overly-protective and restrictive to allowing the child more freedom than the child is able to handle. This results in confusion on the part of both the child and the parents as well as information about the "Oregon's Children" letters may be obtained at the local county offices of the OSU Extension Service at 13 S.W. Nye, Pendleton; 418 N. Main, Milton-Freewater; Experiment Station Road, Hermiston; and Gilliam and Bisbee Building, Heppner.

Crop Report

The Oregon Crop and Livestock Reporting Service has released the following Crop Report:

Winter Wheat Seedings
Winter wheat acreage seeded in the fall of 1982 for the 1983 crop in Oregon is placed at 1,080,000 acres, down eight percent from last year, and 14 percent below the record seedings of the 1980 and 1976 crops.

Moisture supplies were generally adequate this fall in most areas. Cheatgrass infestations caused some delay in Eastern Oregon seedings, as seedings were somewhat behind normal this fall.

Nationally, seedings of winter wheat are placed at 63.0 million acres, five percent less than the 66.4 million seeded for the 1982 crop.

Annual Small Grain Summary
Oregon's all wheat production of 64.5 million bushels in 1982 was down 17 percent from the near record of 1981, due to less acreage harvested and lower yields.

Wallowa Vo-ag teacher attends A.V.A. convention

Dave Hall, vocational agriculture instructor at Wallowa High School joined more than 500 ag educators attending the American Vocational Association (A.V.A.) Convention in St. Louis December 3-7. Nearly 8,000 vocational educators attended the 1,000 plus sessions keyed to the theme, "Vocational Education... An Investment in People."

Hall is the son of Gene and Harriet Hall of Heppner. The 34th annual National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association (N.V.A.T.A.) Convention ran concurrently with the A.V.A. Convention. The N.V.A.T.A., an affiliate of the A.V.A. Ag Education Division, conducted a series of

Livestock Report

The Oregon Crop and Livestock Reporting Service has released the following Livestock Report on hog and pig inventory:

Oregon
All hogs and pigs on hand in Oregon on December 1, 1982 were estimated at 90,000 head, unchanged from a year earlier and 25 percent below two years ago.

The Oregon Crop and Livestock Reporting Service calculates the value of all Oregon hogs on hand on December 1 at $7.1 million, up 17 percent from a year ago. The number of hogs kept for breeding stock, at 13,000 head, is also unchanged from last year.

The Oregon pig crop during the December 1981 through November 1982 period totaled 171,000 head, up four percent from a year earlier. The number of pigs per litter averaged 7.8, the same number of pigs per litter as last year.

United States
U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs was estimated at 53.2

FmHA to 'go the extra mile' to help borrowers succeed

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will "go the extra mile to help our borrowers succeed." That is a quote from Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block's description of the FmHA policy for Fiscal Year 1983, said Charles W. Shuman, administrator of FmHA.

"Our experience in carrying out a similar policy in Fiscal Year 1982 was successful for the most part," he said. "The government cannot guarantee success in farming any more than it can in any other business. But during Fiscal Year 1982 we did provide assistance to literally thousands of farmers who probably would have gone out of business without our help."

FmHA worked, on a case-by-case basis, with FmHA borrowers who needed additional credit but who were behind on current loans. By using every means available, including reschedulings, reamortizations, deferrals and subordinating some of our security to private lenders, the administration was able to stay with nearly 44,000 farmers who were in economic difficulty. That's generally what we mean by "going the extra mile," Shuman explained.

FmHA provides loans to farmers who cannot get credit elsewhere. So, in effect, FmHA probably helped save most of the farmers who received the administration's regular annual operating loans. Viewed from that broad perspective, FmHA helped keep about 100 thousand farmers in business in Fiscal Year 1982.

"During the coming year, we will give every consideration to FmHA borrowers who have made good faith efforts to repay their FmHA loans, but could not because of circumstances beyond their control, who have practiced good management and who have properly maintained property used to secure loans," Shuman said.

"The new farm and home plan for these borrowers should show that any FmHA principal and interest delinquencies could be repaid in a reasonable time. Other farmers with delinquency problems who cannot meet all of the above requirements might still qualify for a new operating loan if their farm and home plans indicate that the current year operating loan can be repaid from 1983 income," he concluded.
