

Lexington news

Delpha Jones 989-8189

Lexington Grange met on Monday evening for a regular meeting. The evening started with a delicious potluck dinner, followed by a slide show by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones of a trip to Yellowstone Park during the winter, recording the breath taking scenes from snowmobiles.

The meeting was called to order by the master, who introduced honored guest Roland Johnson, Wheatland Pomona Grange master and his wife, Delta, Pomona lecturer. After the business meeting both visitors discussed grange work: The granges' needs and what the grange can give the community. We need young members to keep the work going for many years to come. Through the efforts of the grange we have better schools, roads and laws for the benefit of all. Mrs. Johnson told of the C.W.A. activities and thanked all for their hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nelson were Willamette Valley callers last week.

Glover Peck is a patient in Consolidated Good Shepherd Hospital in Hermiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yocom were Wasco callers on Sunday, visiting relatives.

Brenda Kay Millman and children are living in the Winter Apartments in Lexington.

Jessica Schoonover was an overnight patient at Pioneer Memorial Hospital in Heppner.

Friends in our community were deeply saddened by the death of one of our citizens and early settlers, Cleo Van Winkle (nee Eskelson). Cleo, a kind and loving friend, has been a resident of nursing homes in Pendleton and Heppner.

A.F.S. students address local A.A.U.W. members

Joanna Bown and Joel Valasquez

On February 25, two American Field Service exchange students began the second part of their own mini-exchange between Heppner and Tekoa, Wash.

Joanna Bown of Johannesburg, South Africa began the first part of the exchange last week when she traveled to Tekoa to visit Joel Valasquez of San Pedro Sula, Honduras. Joanna is staying with Larry and Mary Ann Cerullo in Heppner until July.

While in Tekoa she attended classes at the high school which currently holds 120 students and went to five basketball games both in town and in Pullman, Wash.

For the second part of the exchange, Joel and Joanna are now staying with the Cerulos to give Joel a taste of life in Heppner until March 4. During his stay, Joel, Joanna and the Cerulos have already gone to the Jim West ranch to give the young people a view of what lambing season is like.

On Monday, the two A.F.S. students gave presentations on their countries to the Heppner-Ione Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Joel described his family as including a younger brother and sister and an older stepbrother who is currently living in New York. His father is a civil engineer and his mother is a political science teacher. They live in San Pedro Sula, a city with a population of 500,000.

The two A.F.S. students spoke of their applying and the screening for A.F.S. before they were accepted. Mary Ann Cerullo also told the group about the need for a host family in the Heppner area.

"It's the most wonderful experience to see these young people's expressions as they see things you've grown up with and perhaps take for granted," said Cerullo. "Having Joanna in our home as a member of our family this year has been a rewarding experience for Larry and me educationally as well as emotionally."

Heppner Elementary plans Health Fair - Open House

On Wednesday, Mar. 9, from 7 to 9 p.m., Heppner Elementary School will be sponsoring a combined Health Fair-Open House. It will be free and the entire community is invited, as there will be "something for everyone," said a spokesperson. Free babysitting will be provided by junior high students in the home economics room.

The evening will include displays of student work and projects in all classrooms. The health fair is offering many opportunities for the public to become better educated in the areas of health and wellness. There will be films; displays from local, county, and state organizations; speakers; demonstrations from students; and the Seventh-day Adventist Health Van will be available.

The services of the Seventh-day Adventist Health Van are free to the public. Information received from the van will be a blood pressure check, lung capacity and health age. The van will be in downtown Heppner during the day of March 9, and at the Elementary School for the health fair from 7 to 9 p.m.

Several speakers are scheduled. At 7:15 p.m. Rick Boulton from the St. Anthony Care Unit in Pendleton, and a representative from Alcoholics Anonymous, will present a program on "Drugs and Alcohol." At 8 p.m. Terry Templeman, director of Morrow County Mental Health Department, will lead a discussion titled "Coping with Stress."

Three films will be shown throughout the evening dealing with health and wellness. They are "Eat, Drink and Be Wary"; "What makes Millie Run?" and "Off Your Duff."

In the Junior High gym from 5 to 8 p.m., students from the third grade on up will be participating in the Jump Rope For Heart marathon. They will jump rope to music. (See related story).

Pat Wright, Morrow County Health Department nurse, will be taking blood pressures. Dr. Huber, a Heppner dentist, will be offering information about dental care. The Morrow County sheriff's office will have a drug display and an officer available for questions. The Junior High Home Economics Classes will be offering information about poison proofing your home for children. They will also be selling "stress dots."

Organizations displaying literature and information are: The American Heart Association, Raleigh Hills Treatment Center, Child Abuse Information, National Dairy Council, United Cerebral Palsy, Epilepsy Association of Oregon, Oregon Potato Commission and Oregon Drug Information Center. Food samples will be offered by the Wheat League, CowBelles, Porkettes and the Seventh-day Adventist Vegetarians.

In addition, there will be aerobic dancing displays, a video tape on cerebral palsy, a film about epilepsy and entertainment will be provided by the music department of a "healthy note."

A complete schedule of events and where they will be located will be posted in the lobby of the elementary building the night of the health fair, the spokesperson said.
