Several Heppner teachers, other school employees and some of their spouses have completed cardiopulmonary resuscitation classes taught by Betty Curnutt of Heppner.

To be certified to administer CPR the students took two classes and passed a practical exam. Curnutt said they will now be certified with the American Heart Association for one year.

Curnutt donates her time and the materials to conduct the class and asks for donations to the Heppner Emergency Medical Technician Association Equipment Fund. Each person taking the classes at the school donated $6.

The funds generated through her latest classes have been used to purchase a second Kendrick Extrication Device for a Pioneer Memorial Hospital ambulance. The device is used to remove injured people from automobiles while protecting against back and neck injuries.

Curnutt said the devices cost about $200 each and both have been purchased through CPR class donations.

BMCC short courses to be offered

Two short courses will be offered during spring term in Heppner which are especially tailored to the busy student, according to Nancy Brownfield, south Morrow County area coordinator for Blue Mountain Community College.

The two courses are "Auto Mechanics for Women" and "Computer Workshop-Agricultural Application." The two are highlighted in the spring schedule mailed out by Blue Mountain, but the dates of the classes were not included, Brownfield said.

The mechanics course will run March 30, April 6 and 13. It will cover routine automobile maintenance such as changing tires, changing oil, as well as how to handle roadside emergencies. The Wednesday night course will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school shop. Tuition is $15.

Using the micro-computer to help make marketing decisions will be covered in a two Saturday workshop on May 14 and 21. The computer workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Heppner High School. Tuition is $15.

Persons wishing more information on these two classes or any of the Heppner area programs may call Brownfield at 676-5039. The phone has record-a-message capabilities so callers may leave a message for her in the event that she is not available to answer the call.
