P.M.H. foundation board plans scholarship

The Pioneer Memorial Hospital foundation Board of Directors met June 22 to take care of routine business matters and to consider the impact of a recent $100,000 gift from former area residents Earl and Hazel Wilson.

The board agreed to maintain the principle and utilize the earnings, according to A.K. "Lucky" Felt, hospital administrator.

The Board also moved to use a portion of the interest earnings to fund an Earl and Hazel Wilson Perpetual Scholarship.

Heppner woman receives $750 ag scholarship

Seventeen top students in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Oregon State University, including one from Heppner, have been awarded 1983-84 scholarships. The scholarships are awarded by agricultural firms and organizations, industry and individuals interested in promoting agricultural education.

Marie Van Schoiack, daughter of Robert Van Schoiack of Heppner, is a senior in agricultural and resource economics. She received a $750 College of Agricultural Sciences Scholarship from the Cenex Foundation. She is a 1980 graduate of Heppner High School.

78 compete at second annual Willow Creek Open

The second annual Willow Creek Open was held last Saturday and Sunday at Willow Creek Country Club. A total of 78 men from across the state, and one from Texas participated in the tournament.

W.C.C.C. women prepared and served lunch for the golfers both days, and the weekend weather was excellent, said Ron Bowman, one of the tournament coordinators.

FACTS & FIGURES

The federal excise tax on spirits is a heavy regressive tax burden on consumers and the industry. Together with state and local levies on spirits, excise taxes amount to 44 percent of the typical retail price of a bottle of spirits—25 percent federal, 19 percent state and local. Liquor is thus the most highly taxed consumer product.

Local women attend Oregon Lung Association meeting

By DELPHIA JONES

The 68th annual meeting of the Oregon Lung Association was held at the Red Lion at the Lloyd Center on Thursday and Friday, June 23 and 24. Guest speaker was Sylvan Dove, a financial development consultant of the American Lung Association from New York. Organizations must have a financial goal and get workers, and get down to the business of making money. Each area is different, so areas must be studied to determine the best money making projects.

The Lung Association has long been known for the sale of Christmas Seals, which benefits research in lung disease, but like everything else, it

The Lung Association, through its work and research, has practically done away with the dreaded T.B. (tuberculosis) and is now hard at work to help with other lung diseases. Emphysema is now baffling; it causes years of discomfort and finally death. Much is known about the cause but very little about retarding this illness after one gets it, or a cure. The causes of emphysema are what this group is really interested in bringing to the public, and what might be done to help slow the disease process down. Plans are underway in this area for an emphysema workshop, which it is hoped can be held in October near our towns. The workshop will concentrate on forming practices and lung hazards such as dust. One can learn much for the benefit of the people of this area by attending a workshop.

The regular meeting was held on Friday. An awards banquet was enjoyed on Thursday evening, with much visiting, meeting new people and getting acquainted taking place.

One of the Eastern Oregon board members who was recently elected is Edith Weatherford Newell, a former Arlington resident. Mrs. Newell is also known for her fine books written on Alaska.

Delpha Jones, chairman of the eastern region, and Hilda Yocom, both of Lexington, were present at the meeting from the area.

Pacific School of Religion student begins internship at I.U.C.C.

Tom Fujita

A Pacific School of Religion student from Berkeley, Calif. has arrived in Ione to begin a summer internship at the Ione and Condon United Churches of Christ. Tom Fujita, a first-year student at the school, and his wife, Sach, arrived in Ione on June 17, and will remain in Eastern Oregon until the end of the summer when he will return to school.

Last week Fujita, 45, supervised Vacation Church School at I.U.C.C. He is presently in Condon for Vacation Church School there and will return to Ione July 1. He is also scheduled to preach in Condon on July 17 and will fill in for the Rev. Art Buck there while he is on vacation in August.

While in Ione, he will conduct a Communion service at the church on July 10, as well as holding Wednesday evening services, and has planned a trip to Pioneer Memorial Nursing Home on July 24 to hold a worship service there. He will also be meeting with the church youth group in July, and is trying to arrange a potluck dinner for senior citizens.

Fujita is interested in the local people and their issues. He says he would like to see some of the countryside and take in some fishing and kite flying. He will also get a first hand look at harvest, and is excited about attending the rodeo in Heppner in August. Sach is enjoying her spare time reading.

The couple has two children, Penny, 22, and Jerry, 20. Both are college students in southern California.

This fall, Fujita will leave rural life to spend his next school year working at a neighborhood youth center in San Francisco.

When he finishes school, he says he would like to go into small church ministry.

Heppner girl attends Oregon Girls State

Robin Ball of Heppner attended the American Legion Auxiliary's Oregon Girls State recently in Salem.

She was in the county of Lauson, in the county of Crapper, and was a member of the Federalist Party.

She was appointed secretary for Representative Teresa Sherley.

Oregon Girls State was held on the Willamette University campus, which is located across from the Oregon State Capitol Building in Salem. This year's session was made up of 300 high school junior girls from schools throughout the state. The session was limited to a select group of girls who constituted a mythical state.

They assumed the duties of citizens by electing their own city and county governments; passed and enforced city ordinances; and, elected their own state senators and representatives. In their legislature, the girls introduced, debated and passed bills. They also visited the Oregon State Capitol. All girls took an active part in the government program since they lived as self governing citizens during the full period of Oregon Girls State.

The staff was made up of American Legion Auxiliary members.

Robin is the daughter of Marie and Jim Boor of Heppner.
