Obituaries

Sam McMillan

MILWAUKIE - Sam McMillan, author, educator and wheat rancher, died August 11 at a Milwaukie hospital. He wrote two books, "The Bunchgrassers," a history of Lexington, Oregon, where he was born January 16, 1916. He also wrote "Gathering of the Clan," a history of the McMillans dating back to family origin in Scotland several centuries ago.

McMillan's grandfather homesteaded in the Lexington area in 1886, and his father homesteaded in that area a short time later.

He graduated from Lexington High School in 1933, and worked on his father's wheat ranch through the spring of 1941. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps in April, 1941 and was discharged in December, 1945 as a Sergeant Major. He returned to Lexington after World War II and purchased his Grandfather McMillan's estate. He operated that wheat ranch from 1946 through 1958.

Mr. McMillan married Amabel Strodman in 1943.

He moved to Portland and entered Portland State in 1958, receiving his B.A. degree in history in 1962. He taught at Centennial High School for five years, and received his Masters' degree in 1968. He was an instructor at Mt. Hood Community College for 10 years, retiring in 1977.

Mr. McMillan was member of the Al Kader Shrine; past master, Heppner Lodge No. 69 AM & FM; past district deputy grand master, district No. 28; and past patron Locust Chapter No. 119, O.E.S. He was also a member of B.P.O.E. No. 358, Heppner.

He is survived by his wife, Amabel, by brothers Robert of Hillsboro and Jack of Redmond, three surviving sisters: Freida Slocum of Heppner, Eula Markle of Sandy and Naomi Hill of Portland.

No public service was held. Commitment was at Skyline Memorial Gardens.

Memorial donations may be made to the Masonic & Eastern Star Home in Forest Grove, Oregon, 97116, or to the Portland Sunshine Division.

Pre-fair workday set

All 4-H families and friends of 4-H and F.F.A. are encouraged to assist with a clean up-set up-get ready for fair day on Sunday, August 14. "Come as early as you can, there's lots of things that need doing," said Birdine Tullis of the county Extension Service.

There are pens to be set up, and cleaned; inside the annex everything must be put in place and decorations added. Each livestock club will be assigned stalls early this year and asked to clean them in preparation for their animals.

To make the day a special event, the fair board will provide a main meat dish, plates and tableware as well as drinks for a potluck lunch. Those who attend are asked to bring a favorite salad or dessert.

At 4 p.m., all 4-H superintendents are asked to meet with Bob Costa and Birdine Tullis, extension staff, to finalize plans and make sure all things are "go" for fair.

Pecks take Lexington Yard of Month award

Frances Peck with daughters Judy (l) and Deanna

The Lexington Garden Bugs have chosen the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peck at 150 W. Water St. for the August Yard of the Month.

Six years ago, this area of flowers, strawberries and rock fence was just an alfalfa field. The rocks were gathered from various areas the couple has visited, and the strawberry plants border a bed of flowers.

"This small space has been made into a unique spot," said a garden club member.

Garden animals, birds and a cow skull also decorate the Peck's small but lovely yard, she added.

Fair News

Fair superintendents are reminded of the pre-fair work day on Sunday, Aug. 14 at 1 p.m. at the fairgrounds in Heppner. A potluck dinner will be served later in the afternoon. The meat will be furnished. All volunteers are needed, said Fair Secretary Ruby Munkers.

A new feature at this year's fair will be an Arts and Crafts Day on Tuesday, Aug. 23. Anyone interested in demonstrating an art or craft may call Munkers for details. The secretary's hours at the fair office are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. She can be reached at 676-9474 or 676-9028.

Fair buttons will be sold this year and may be picked up at the fair office before the fair. Cost is $2 each. Senior citizen passes are also available at the fair office. Following is a schedule of fair events: August 13 - 4-H Horse Show, August 16 to 20 - work on booths, August 19 - 4-H Style Revue, August 21 - Open Class Horse Show and exhibits must be in, August 22 - the fair opens.

Harley Sager, parade chairman, reports that entries for the Fair and Rodeo Parade are coming in slowly. Everyone interested in entering the parade is asked to call him for more information.
