

County fair to feature "Craft Village"

The area between the 4-H dorm and the big show barn near the Snack Shack will be enlarged and featured at the 1984 Centennial Fair as a "craft village" space.

The Extension Service and the Fair Committee are promoting demonstrations of craft skills, displaying of crafted articles and the selling of these articles in that space each day from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. of Fair week.

There will be no charge for table space and there will be a few tables furnished by the fair. Several craftspersons have already spoken for space for this area, and now others who are interested in demonstrating, showing and perhaps selling their products are being reminded that they should make firm arrangements for space in the craft village very soon by calling either the fair office (676-9474) or Jane Rawlins, Fair Committee Chairman at 676-9435.

4-H Clubs Two-Trackers

By Kristi Jake O'Brien
June 23, the Two Trackers 4-H club went on a trail ride. Members rode from the Bob VanSchoick ranch to Anson Wright Park. The ride began at 11 a.m. and took six hours.

We all had a great time, we saw deer and crossed big streams. We went down steep hills and jumped creeks.

The next day a five hour ride included climbing lots of hills.

Burke O'Brien, Merlyn Robinson, Jan Coe, and Steve Campbell accompanied the 16 4-H'ers. A cooking crew of Al and Jean Brazel, Delia Robinson, and Shirley Campbell remained at the camp.

Scouts organize fund drive

The Boy Scouts of America annually conducts a sustaining membership enrollment drive to provide funds for the work of the council in support of local troops and packs. Troop 661 benefits from funds generated by this drive in the form of leader training, day and overnight camping facilities, and record keeping operations at the council center.

Cara Costa of the Cub Scout committee and Linda Shaw of the Boy Scout committee are organizing the local fund drive. Persons not otherwise involved in the scouting program who wish to support the local program are encouraged to contact either Costa or Shaw to make a donation.
