CBEC discusses BPA rate hike, power outage at board meeting

The Columbia Basin Electric Cooperative's board of directors met for a regular meeting in Heppner October 25. The expected July 1985 Bonneville Power Administration rate increase and possible actions the board could take to meet its consequences was a main topic of discussion according to Co-op manager Fred Toombs.
The Co-op board discussed potential revenues from Kinzua's co-generation plant which is anticipated to be on line before the end of the year and Chem-Security's proposed PCB incinerator near Arlington which could significantly offset much of the BPA increase.
They also acknowledged that the incinerator is far from reality at this point, and they didn't come close to ruling out a possible Co-op rate increase for next year. The directors decided to avoid raising rates if at all possible, to take the matter month by month and to trace continuing developments. A decision won't be required for some time.
In other business, Toombs outlined the Co-op's financial report. Board members concluded the report was very positive. He explained that to date $1,372,332 has been invested out of general funds. Total administrative expenses are well below what they were last year at this time. In the nine months ending September 1983, administrative expenses totalled $256,394.86. In the nine months ending September 1984, administrative expenses totalled $212,078.42.
Toombs explained that a chronic source of trouble is occurring at the lone sub-station because of an underground feeder line. An outage will be necessary in the Heppner, lone, Lexington, Ruggs, Hardman, Sand Hollow, Willow Creek, Blakes, Rhea Creek, Eight-mile, Olex, Cecil, Morgan, Mikkaio and Gwendolen areas Sunday, Nov. 18 from 6 a.m. until 2 p.m. The outage will allow BPA crews to complete work in their substation at Boardman. CBEC will use this opportunity to do some of the necessary work to facilitate connection of the Kinzua Co-generation plant.

The board learned that a resolution drafted by them concerning expansion of the Oregon Rural Electric Cooperative Association Board would be voted on at the ORECA Membership's December meeting. The resolution calls for a board of seven members instead of five. Four of these would be directors with three of them managers. There would be two directors from each side of the Cascade mountains. It was found that CBEC had the full support of ORECA's president in the resolution.
Board directors were also provided with the ORECA proposed budget for the 1985 year. They were asked to study it for later discussion.
The directors then heard report on the franchise agreements they have with the cities they serve. It was agreed the Co-op is up to date on the agreements. Franchise agreements are exentially business licenses, with the revenue supporting city's street lights and paid on by customers within the cities.
The board approved a motion to support the campaign of Loy Peterson from Central Electric Cooperative in Redmond for a position on the Cooperative Finance Corporation Board. The motion approved a donation of $150 to the campaign.
The board also approved a motion to pay the Northwest Public Power Association membership dues of $2,447. It was decided to remain an education sustaining member.
In the manager's report, Toombs informed the directors about a million dollar line of credit available through CFC in case of emergencies such as ice storms. A motion passed to apply for the line of credit. Toombs then brought up the BPA rate increase, as mentioned.
Co-op directors then went into executive session.
