Sifting through the Times

Three individual observers on three separate occasions saw an object reported to be "shuttlecock shaped and about the size of the moon. It glows from orange to red as it approaches and takes on a greenish hue as it departs." This was the first UFO sighting in Heppner since the mid-40s.

Henry Krebs, Ione, was elected president of the Oregon Sheep Growers.

Fog and freezing weather pervaded most of Morrow County for the week and was credited with causing at least two wrecks.

Motorists who violated parking limits would be given a regular parking citation which would probably cost $1. The "Give Back program had been in effect whereby if a meter ran out, instead of a parking citation, the policeman put a nickle in the meter and an orange (pay back) envelope under the windshield wiper for the motorist to put a nickle in and leave at the nearest business. The police dept. reported that too many motorists were taking advantage of the program and not 'giving back' the nickle which had been deposited in the meter as a courtesy." The Chamber of Commerce had donated funds to get the program started.

Senators Richard L. Neuberger and Wayne Morse had sent letters to Pomona Grange master Alvin Wagenblast stating that they are "making efforts to aid the county and the grange, in obtaining the release of the Boardman Bombing Range for private use."

The state of Oregon began a campaign to register the birth of all babies forn during the past 12 months because "such registration insures certain protection under national and state laws. In many instances failure to report has resulted in the loss of inheritances of of other property rights. A proper record of birth, made in the county courthouse soon after birth, funishes legal proof of a person's identity, citizenship, nationality, age, birthplace and legitimacy."

"James O'Connor, native of Ireland and resident of Morrow county for many years, renounced allegiance to King George V in taking the oath of a naturalized citizen of the United States before Judge Calvin Sweek at the opening of the December term of circuit court on Monday morning."
