Carlson family prepares for Pioneer Picnic

The Carlson Family invites everyone to join them on Sunday, May 26 at the Morrow County Fairgrounds. Registration will be from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. with seating beginning at 1 p.m. The Presentation of Colors will start the program at 1:15 p.m.

Following the Presentation of Colors by the Heppner FFA Chapter, the Dedication will be conducted by Dick McElligott of Ione Legion Post No. 95 with Geneva Matthews sounding Taps. Musical selections will be by the Heppner Junior High Choir. At 1:30 p.m. co-host Louis Carlson will welcome guests and Rick Evenson, pastor of Hope-Valby Lutheran Church will conduct the Invocation.

For the pot luck dinner, the Carlson family will be serving ham, baked beans, cole slaw, hot rolls and beverages. Gourmet Brands of Boardman are to provide French fries. Guests are requested to bring a salad or dessert.

The program will continue with Louis Carlson making the Introductions followed by the Presentation of Prizes by Mildred Carlson Hope and Janet Carlson Schoolcraft, compliments of BPOE Lodge and the Heppner-Morrow Chamber of Commerce. The Carlsons have also arranged for a photographer to be available for family portraits.

I.U.C.C. plans a full day at 22nd annual Auction and Barbecue

Approximately 30 people have been madly pricing, organizing and cooking for the Twenty-second annual Ione United Church of Christ Auction and Barbecue, which is scheduled for Saturday, June 1. The Country Store starts the day at 10 a.m. at the Willows Grange Hall in Ione.

The Country Store will feature a variety of homemade arts and crafts, food items, sewing, and a "new to you" section along with its annual fish pond and "kiddy corner" for the children. Also for the children, cartoons will be shown later in the afternoon. Another feature will be free rides in a Model T Ford given by Chuck Nelson. Outside, Auctioneer Don Wink of The Dalles will get things humming at 10:45 a.m. In addition to the larger items donated by local businesses with the antiques and collectables, there will be a special quilt hand made by the ladies of IUCC to be auctioned off.

"This is a good time to stock up for Christmas gifts," says Wink of IUCC. "It makes shopping for next year's presents really easy for me."

This year's barbecue will feature IUCC's famous pit barbecue beef staff members placed high in individual categories.

Hughes placed first in editorials, first in editorial cartoons and second in informative features. Monique Allan ranked first in reviews and third in personality features. Kelli Bergstrom placed first in columns.

Travis Hyatt placed first in sports news and Brenda McMinn placed first in advertising.

P.M.H. to receive services from St. Anthony

Morrow County Court approved an agreement last Friday allowing St. Anthony Hospital of Pendleton to provide support services for Pioneer Memorial Hospital.

According to Marsha Anderson of the Pioneer Memorial Hospital Board, the agreement calls for St. Anthony to provide the services without charge to Morrow County for the first year.

The current administrator, Bob Smith, is employed by Brim Associates of Portland. St. Anthony Hospital will attempt to work out a deal with Brim to allow a smooth transition to a St. Anthony administrator.

Anderson stated that the agreement will give Pioneer Memorial the backing of St. Anthony's resource and expertise, however, the present hospital board will remain in charge at Pioneer Memorial.

Heppner High Drama Club presents "Wind in the Willows"

BY MONIQUE ALLAN

This week sees the opening of Heppner High's Spring production, a children's play, "The Wind in the Willows." The curtain will open at 3 p.m. on Tuesday afternoon, May 21, at the Heppner Elementary School, then again on Wednesday, May 22, same place, same time, at the Elementary School, at 3 p.m.

The cast will transport to Ione, Tuesday, May 28, for their third production, which will be at Ione High School, open for the public, time to be announced. The city of Heppner will have the opportunity to see "The Wind in the Willows" on Thursday, May 30, at 7:30 p.m. in Heppner High School's cafeteria, where the six-person cast comes together to act out their last performance.

The entrance fee for adults will $1, and Thursday night, 50 cents for children.

This children's play is a hilarious animal adventure story, which takes us into the lives of the riverbanks and their escapades among the windy willows. The 'great and glorious' Mr. Toad, played by senior Nancy Martin, keeps his friends, Mr. Rat (Monique Allan), Mr. Badger (Kathleen Brazell), and Mole (Jim Wornell), on edge when his curiosity gets him in more trouble than good.

During the story the irresponsible Toad encounters many adventures, meeting up with a generous washerwoman, and a dashing thief, both parts played by Kim Hughes. Toad also stumbles across a train engineer, and is put down by pompous judge...these two identities portrayed by Kelli Bergstrom. "Wind in the Willows" should bring laughter to adults and children of all ages, not to mention the suspense and excitement that binds the play together to make it definitely worth seeing.
