

Ione Garden Club welcomes new member

Ione Garden Club members spent a most enjoyable afternoon at the home of Virginia Peck on Wednesday, Sept. 11. A new member Linda Troxell, was greeted by the members. During the business meeting it was voted to consult with the ICABO group concerning beautification of the Main Street business section of Ione, said a club spokesperson. The October meeting will be held at the home of Norma Rea and each person is to bring a decorated pumpkin.

Cece Slocum announced that the Blue Mountain District No. 10 meeting will be held at the school cafeteria at Echo on October 5. Special guests for the day were Virginia Meck and Cece Slocum, Blue Mountain District Director, of Hermiston. Cece spoke concerning the themes of the various garden club arms: National theme is "Pride in the Land"; Pacific Region, Cooperation; Oregon State Federation of Garden Clubs, "Action on the Home Front"; and Blue Mountain District, "Educate with Flowers." In the two years of her tenure Cece plans to initiate five flower show schools for those interested in planning flower shows and judging them.

Members viewed and commented on the over fifty horticulture specimens, and arrangements brought for a mini flower show. There were butterfly snapdragons, marigolds, roses, daisies, calendulums, conchicums, chrysanthemums, dahlias, and petunias on display.

Obituaries

Dick Yocom

Funeral services were held on Monday at the Wasco Methodist Church for Dick Yocom. Mr. Yocom was born February 22, 1907 at Sheridan, Oregon and died September 12, 1985 in The Dalles. Rev. June Fothergill officiated with organist Millie Moore. Private vault interment was at Sunrise Cemetery in Wasco.

He leaves a son, Joe, of Lexington, a daughter, Beverly Gunderson of Heppner and a daughter, Shirley Otto of Portland.

The Lyle Pecks and the Cecil Jones attended the service.

Anton H. Seitz

A memorial service for Anton "Tony" H. Seitz will begin at 5 p.m. Wednesday at St. Patrick Catholic Church, Heppner. The Rev. Brian J. McGovern will be officiating and Carley Drake will be the organist. Seitz, 53, of Heppner, died at his home Saturday, Sept. 14, 1985.

He was born May 26, 1932, at Flint, Mich., the son of Anton and Tina (Kneer) Seitz.

He grew up in Michigan and was graduated from Flint Technical School. He was employed for 20 years by General Motors as an electrician.

IN 1955 he married Faye Osborn in Flint.

In 1972 the couple moved to Oregon and lived in several locations before settling in Heppner in 1974. Seitz worked for Kinzua Corp. as an electrician for several years and was employed by U & I Corp. at the time of his death.

He was a member of Heppner B.P.O.E. 358.

Survivors include his wife, Faye, daughters, Faith Healy, Shawna Wilson, and Melanie Seitz, and son, Wayne, all of Heppner; mother, Tina Seitz of Swartz Creek, Mich.; brothers, Lud of Grand Blanc, Mich. and Walter of Swartz Creek; sister, Margaret DeCarli of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; and three grandchildren.

Friends who wish may contribute to the American Cancer Society or Pioneer Memorial Hospital directly or through Sweeney Mortuary, Heppner.

Heppner Pre-school needs your support

Heppner Pre-school is asking for your donation! We are raising money to help cover expenses and to insure an adequate supply of toys and materials, says teacher Georgia Van Winkle.

Trish Toll has generously donated a crocheted afghan. A drawing for the afghan will be held Thursday, Oct. 31. Tickets sell for one for 50 cents or three for $1. Ask your local pre-schoolers for details or call 676-3249 for your donation.

Your support will be greatly appreciated.

Heppner Garden Club greets new teachers

By Justine Weatherford
The September meeting of the Heppner Garden Club followed a tour of the Bill Rawlins garden and a potluck dinner in the Rawlin's home Thursday, Sept. 4. Reports were given about the members participation with the garden clubs from Ione and Lexington in last month's county fair.

Plans were made to put together welcome boxes for the new teachers and clergy in Heppner. Members were encouraged to sign up to attend the Oregon Federation Symposium in Corvallis on September 23 and 24 and were reminded that the District 10 Fall Meeting will take place in Echo on Saturday, Oct. 5.

There was planning for an "open" salad supper to which anyone interested in joining with the garden club is cordially invited on Monday evening, Oct. 7.

During the afternoon of Sept. 10, a group of club members completed the "Welcome to Heppner Boxes" containing fresh garden produce and flowers, a welcome card and a new potholder and then delivered the boxes to schools and homes.

Swanson Insurance welcomes new agent

Ron Palmateer

Ron Palmateer has joined Swanson Insurance in Ione as a new agent, owners Jim and Monica Swanson have announced.

Palmateer, 34, has lived in the Ione area all his life, and was most recently with Crop Hail Management Insurance Co. as an adjuster. Palmateer is also a farmer in the area, and will specialize in crop insurance with Swanson.

His wife's name is Terri, and they have two sons Tyson and Treve.

More from Ore. State Fair

Two local blue ribbon winners at the last State Fair fashion revue in Salem are Kim Wright and Nance Wright, both modeled woolen garments.

BMCC continuing ed. classes start Sept. 23

Blue Mountain Community College will begin its continuing education courses Monday, Sept. 23, announced Marie Lane, Morrow County Coordinator.

New classes for the fall schedule include an Investment Services Seminar beginning in October, a Bike Repair Workshop in Ione, an Art Drawing class. The drawing class is not for beginners, stressed Lane. It has been designed to lead into a portrait oil class. There will also be a Dance to Fitness class twice weekly at the Elks Club. This would be a good time for beginners to start, added Lane.

For preregistration or for more information call Marie Lane at 676-5039.
