

Stefani yard honored for Sept.

The yard of Art and Dorothy Stefani was chosen for honors for the month of September. The Stefanis have four grown children and have lived in their present home for 20 years. They enjoy working in the yard and try to have something blooming from early spring until late summer.

Geraniums are one of their favorite flowers, especially red ones which Dorothy has in planter boxes. They plan to set out more trees in the back yard in the spring. Some of the ground is not the best and they have been using ground builders and peat moss.

Heppner Garden Club entertains, travels

By Justine Weatherford
 Monday evening, Oct. 7, the parish hall of All Saints Episcopal Church looked festive as six tables of guests and garden club members enjoyed a get-acquainted salad buffet.

Jane Rawlins, president of the Heppner Garden Club, presided. She greeted everyone and introduced the segments of the evening's program.

Blue Mountain District 10 Director Cece Slocum, of Hermiston's Bloomer Girls Club was the principal speaker. She reviewed the organization of affiliated garden clubs with districts, state federations, regional, national and international organizations. Several members of the Heppner club joined Jane Rawlins in telling of local projects and activities. Dr. Wolff, a founding member of the Heppner Club, gave an amusing history of that organization.

The four officers of the Heppner Garden Club, President Rawlins, Vice-President Bebe Munkers, Secretary Martha Doherty and Treasurer Vivian McConnell joined Heppner members in greeting guests.

An amusing, somewhat educational skit, was performed by five Heppner members under director Rawlins and assistant Martha Doherty. The performers were Irene Swanson, Alberta Johannes, Jerry Doherty, Verna Brinda and Justine Weatherford. They dramatized the construction of a prize winning flower arrangement.

New members who have joined the Heppner Garden Club are: Harriet Batty, Mary Goheen, Dorthy and Wilbur Jackson.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, nine members from Heppner attended the Fall District 10 meeting in Echo. Those who attended, who participated in the program, entered flowers and arrangements in the flower show and contributed to the Country Store were: Verna Brinda, Jerry and Martha Doherty, Alberta Johannes, Adelle LaTrace, Vivian McConnell, Jane Rawlins, Irene Swanson and Justine Weatherford. Member Ida Farra, who did not go to Echo, entered several winning blooms in the flower show and contributed to the Country Store sale table that funds meeting expense.

What's Your Opinion

Question: "Do you feel PMH being granted the adult day care license will help the community?"
 "It certainly will," says Paul Jones of Heppner, "it's one that's needed in any community."

Ext. study groups plan for coming year

The Rhea Creek Extension Study Group met Wednesday, Oct. 2 for a lesson and potluck lunch at the home of Dorris Graves. "Make Your World a Better Place," was taught by Graves who encouraged "get involved," think of things such as better roads which are concerns to the community and be a lobbyist; talk up ideas at group meetings.

Fourteen members and three guests were present. The next meeting will be November 6, 10:30 a.m. at Beverly Wright's. The lesson will be "What's New in Notions."
