Re: Christmas

Dear St. Nick:

Once again it's time for me to send you my wish list for filling up my stocking. I had a dream the other night, and these are things I would like to see under the tree.

- Manute Bol for my City League team. We'd even let him shoot once in awhile if he wanted to, and asked nicely.

- Another major title for Jack Nicklaus. The sight of the Golden Bear coming up 18 with the U.S. Open in the bag would be worth a whole year in memories.

- For a major league baseball player to demand a cut in salary for having a bad season. The press release would quote statistics and state how unfair it is for the player in question to make $1 million-year when deserving players make less.

- A whole season without an illegal payment, a $100 handshake, a fully paid gambling expedition, or any other inducement for blue chip high school athletes.

- A Heisman Trophy winner that nobody had heard of at the beginning of the season.

- To see the following just ome more time: Pete Rose diving headfirst into second base; Reggie Jackson standing at homeplate admiring a homer as only Reggie can; Steve Carlton matter-of-factly striding off the mound after a called third strike.

- A Super Bowl for Walter Payton, who may go down as the best ever—at least until Marcus Allen puts in a few more seasons.

- A videotape of the following things, so that when I get sick of sports stories about drugs and illegalities and greed, that I can be reminded of grace of beauty of sports: Edwin Moses gliding for home; Secretariat pounding for home; Wayne Gretzky slamming it home on the break; Isiah Thomas in full flight; The Juice in the open field; Tom Seaver throwing as shutout; The Special Olympics.

- Finally Santa, there's my annual request. I know that I've asked before and you haven't delivered. I know that you must have your reasons, but please Santa, just this once, can't you give me a whole season with no Dick Vitale? Oh well, I said I'd been dreaming.

Your friend,
Mike

(P.S. I have been a good boy—just ask the Oregon State fans).

Crystal Ball

And then there were two. The CB race has come down to the final week of the season, and only Dale and Brent are still alive. dale carries a one-game lead into the final week. And as Billy Welu used to say on pro bowling telecasts: "Chris, we have the possibility of a tie." Dale and Brent have chosen three games differently this week. If Brent prevails in two-out-of-three, then the season will see co-champs. Stay tuned. Our final guest is Gerald Pierson, who has quietly been waiting for his chance to strike all season. This is it, and he has seized the opportunity, depriving last week's guest—Rick Johnston—from getting a chance to get even. Always next year. There is no truth to the rumor that Dave is going to go into seclusion after his last place finish. Consider this, Dave: guess who finished last, last year? You guessed it—Dale.

STANDINGS season (last week): Dale 121-61 (12-2), Brent 120-62 (12-2), MIke 117-65 (11-3), George 115-67 (12-2), Dave 11-71 (10-4), Guest (9-5).

R&W DRIVE-IN SPORTS QUIZ

Our winner from two weeks ago is Brent Eggers, who correctly identified Ed Marinaro of Cornell as the last Ivy Leaguer to make a strong showing in the Heisman Trophy balloting (he finished second in 1971). Many of you will recognize Marinaro as Officer Joe Coffey on Hill Street Blues. Brent wins a gift certificate from the R&W Drive-In. Other correct answers came from Ashley Conklin, who lost a coin flip, and Earl Fishburn, whose entry came in after the deadline. This week's question: Name the American Olympic track and field star who later participated in the 1980 Winter Olympics as a bobsledder. Send answers to PO Box 509, Heppner, OR 97836 no later than December 27.
