By Mary Bryant 676-9493

Paula and Chris Cole of Portland spent Christmas with her parents, Paul and Bethal Heinrich. Also present for Christmas day was Mrs. Snoda Blake, mother of Mrs. Heinrich.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Elder had Christmas with her daughter and son-in-law, Colleen and Jack Ploybar and their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Graham flew to Eugene for Christmas with their daughter and son-in-law, Jean Marie and Bernard Damon and their family. After their return home, Helen Valentine from Santa Rosa, California, visited them on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Huddleston spent Christmas in Portland with their children and their families. As a special treat, their daughter, Molly, and her family, came from Fairbanks, Alaska, to be with her parents and brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Vivian McConnell and sons, Tom and Rich, have just returned from a trip to Klamath Falls where they visited Susan and Brian Hargrove and family. Susan is a daughter of Mrs. McConnell.

Carl and Sylvia McDaniel drove to Arlington Monday where their daughter, Georgiana, took the bus back to home in Salem.

Mrs. Mildred Padberg spent Christmas day at the home of her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mark King, of Ione. Mrs. Padberg was surprised by a short visit from Jessie Faye Morris and Gladys Muzzy of Fossil one day last week. Mrs. Morris taught in Heppner at one time.

Scott Cason from Irrigon is spending part of the holidays with his grandmother, Mary Bryant, and his brothers, Jimmy and Bert Cason. His mother, Pearl Cason, and his brother, Frank Cason, brought him to Heppner. On Christmas Day, Ida Lynn, Mary Bryant, and John Cason enjoyed dinner with Jim and Jewel Cason, and her son, Randy, and a visit with her daughter, Rene, and little Adrian Lee. Jimmy and Bert Cason also were part of the family gathering.

Lincoln and Bernice Nash spent Christmas morning at the Dean Connor home where they enjoyed the opening of gifts. They were guests of Maryanne and Lee Palmer of Ione for dinner.

Mrs. Mary Goheen joined friends in Portland for a six-day tour to Victoria, B.C. to celebrate "Christmas at the Empress." One night was spent in Vancouver, B.C., and after a tour of the city and preview of Expo '86, they took the ferry to Victoria, where they were greeted at the hotel with a "welcome reception" before dinner. The festivities and decorations were beautiful and the food was delicious and abundant. On Christmas Eve a concert was held in the huge lobby room after dinner. On Christmas morning a caroling group toured the halls. In the afternoon a visit to Anne Hathaway's Cottage and tea at The Old English Inn was enjoyed. Tea consisted of sandwiches, hot scones with whipped cream and strawberry preserves, pudding and English Trifle.

Christmas dinner was highlighted by the procession of the chefs bringing in the boar's head. After dinner, the lighting of the Yule Log took place. Thursday, tea at the Empress with a concert by the carolers and the Boxing Day dinner was on the agenda. The hotel left a large tile trivet with an etching of the hotel on it as a reminder of

BMCC winter classes offer wide variety

Classes at Blue Mountain Community College winter term will offer a variety of educational opportunities from a number of computer classes to veterinary management of domestic animals.

Registration for winter term continues week days at the college. Persons interested in taking a class or two may use the mail-in form on the back of the schedule of classes that was mailed to district patrons recently.

Students who plan to attend the college full-time should plan to visit the Counseling Center in Pioneer Hall. Entering students take a placement test which helps them choose the correct level of English and math courses. Counselors at the college then help the student with career or program choices prior to registration.

College offices are open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. every week day except for Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, when the whole campus will be closed.

In the Pendleton area, two computer classes may be of interest either to the novice or to the more experienced computer operator.

For the beginner, CS103 offers an introduction to personal computers. The class is offered either Wednesday or Thursday evening.

Apple Works, a more advanced class, is an integrated package making use of word processing, databases and spread sheets. This class is offered Tuesday evenings.

"Veterinary Management of Domestic Animals", another Pendleton class, is offered Thursday evenings. The course will cover management techniques and basic veterinary care skills. Animal nutrition, restraint, and vaccination are all topics covered in the class.

Hermiston classes include both college credit classes as well as special interest courses. Students in that area are offered college credit courses in the areas of business, computers, career exploration, geology, and health education.

Self-improvement classes in Hermiston run from topics such as art, cooking, crafts, and exercise. Two styles of baskets will be taught in basketmaking workshops to be offered March 5, 10 and 12.

Heppner residents may choose a class dedicated to the basics of astronomy with a special emphasis on Halley's comet. Woodworking, gular instruction, dance to fitness and cross country skiing are other special interest classes to be offered.

Cross country skiing, how to cope with living single, and woodworking are all skills to be taught in classes offered in Milton-Freewater. A class titled "Commercial Fruit Growing" will be offered to the serious orchardists in the area.
