Future Farmers advance to district

By Noella Rill
Heppner FFA Reporter
The Heppner Chapter of Future Farmers of America held their annual Leadership Skills contest on Thursday, Jan. 31.

Noella Rill won the Prepared Public Speaking contest with her speech entitled "The Future of Farming." Alex Lindsay won the Extemporaneous Public Speaking Contest with his speech on "The Role of Cooperatives in the Future of Agriculture." Barney Lindsay won the FFA Creed Speaking Contest.

The winners will advance to district competition on Thursday, Feb. 13, at Pendleton. They will be competing against chapter winners from Pendleton, Hermiston, McLoughlin (Milton-Freewater), Riverside (Boardman), Weston-McEwen, and Condon.

Susan Martin and Noella Rill also competed in the Extemporaneous Contest and Alex Lindsay was in the prepared Public Speaking contest. Nance Wright and Nancy Bailly competed in the FFA Creed Speaking Contest.

Judges for the contest were: Liz Curtis, Heppner High counselor; Larry Mills, M.C.G.G. manager; Bob Adleman, A.S.C.S.; Harley Sager, First Interstate Bank; Jim Wishart, Bank of Eastern Oregon; Bill Broderick, Rancher; Valery Campbell, Heppner High language arts teacher, and David Sykes, Gazette-Times Publisher.

Roger Records, Heppner FFA advisor, says "These students have an excellent chance to make it all the way to the state contest in Corvallis".
