Heppner seniors receive scholarships

Recently announced scholarship winners at Heppner High School include:

Trina Palmer who was awarded one of the national Elks Vocational Scholarships, $1,000/year for two years. The daughter of Karen Palmer, she will major in accounting at Blue Mountain Community College. She has won this year's district skills contest in accounting and will compete at the State Contest. She has gained experience working at the Bank of Eastern Oregon and the School District Office.

Noella Rill has received a $750 Oregon State Home Builders

Association scholarship. The daughter of William and Sandra Rill.

she will attend Oregon State University. She wrote an essay about home ownership in today's society to earn her scholarship. She is also active in FFA, 4-H, and school activities.

Keith Kenison has been awarded a $400 Phi Delta Kappa education scholarship at Eastern Oregon State College. The son of Don and Judy Kenison, he will major in music education at EOSC. He is a 4-00 (all A's) student active in basketball, music, and student council.

Students awarded

Several local students attending the Blue Mountain Community College Career Skills Contest last month brought home first, second, or third place honors.

Approximately 1600 students from five counties took part in the 40 contests which ranged from bread baking to auto mechanics to mathematics, said Heppner vocational teacher Mike Royer. It's a "neat experience," he said, and "a good way for kids who are successful in vocational areas to be recognized." Twenty-eight students from Heppner attended the contest. The top finishers, said Royer, will be awarded plaques later this month at the school's Talented and Gifted Banquet.

Those receiving plaques from Heppner High School are:

Ashley Conklin, a first place for news/editorial writing and another first place for feature/sports writing.

Chris McLaughlin, a first place in Physical Science.

Keith Kenison, a second place in Physical Science.

Students from Ione High School who placed among the top three places in the following categories are:

Patty McElligott, a first place in bread baking.

Kym McCabe, a second place in bread baking.

The team of Keith Morter and Gary Pea, a third place for accuracy in the catapult.

The team of John Scalf and Kierin Doherty, a first place in bridge building.

The team of Kevin Ball and Brian Ball, a second place in computer programming.

Music awards presented

Leah Cooper Ken Curtis

Music awards presented at the Tuesday, May 6, Heppner High School music department concert included:

American Choral Award for outstanding chorus student to senior Leah Cooper. A soprano, she has participated in chorus for three years.

John Philip Sousa Award for outstanding band member to senior Ken Curtis. The trumpet player has been a band student three years, four years in the pep band, and jazz band two years. He plans to play trumpet at Oregon State University next fall.

Director's Award was presented to senior Keith Kenison. A four-year band and pep band member, and two-year jazz band member, he plays saxophone. He will major in music education at Eastern Oregon State College. He has been student director of the high school band this year.
