Ione loses to Arlington

Ione's Deena Hams slips one by Arlington player last Tuesday, as the Cardinals played leading Honkers tough before losing three games 11-15, 15-8 and 15-3.

Mustang players honored

By Ashley Conklin

A pair of senior linemen, Gene Harris and Bob Riehl, were named Offensive and Defensie Players of the Week in Heppner's 42-0 Columbia Basin Conference football loss to the Wahtonka Eagles last Thursday night.

Harris, a 5'8" 120 lbs. guard, had the tough task of stopping Eagle Defensive tackle Fred Brackenbury.

However, Harris and the rest of the Mustang offensive line, provided Heppner quarterback Joe Taylor enough time to complete seven of 16 passes for 80 yards.

Riehl, the Mustangs leading tackler on the season, led the team in tackles with 18 for 23 total defensive points.

Riehl had 83 tackle points going into Thursday's game and was second in the CBC behind only Matt Nuttbrook of Riverside who had 96.

Lady golfers honor club pro

On October 7 the ladies of the Tuesday and Wednesday clubs at Willow Creek Country Club gathered at the club house for an appreciation luncheon in honor of Charlie Rawlins, club pro, who, the golfers say, has been so much help this season.

Tee off time was at 9:30 a.m. with 16 ladies enjoying play.

The following awards where won:

Low gross - Eileen Padberg and Neoma Bailey.

Low net - Barbara Cutsforth and Jo Pettyjohn.

Least putts - Bev Wilson and Mary Beamer.

Chip in (two) - Mary Beamer.

Long drive - Bev Wilson and Jo Pettyjohn.

Hostesses for the lunch were Bebe Munkers and Lucille Massey.

The Ladies presented Charlie Rawlins with a golf sweater and a lovely cake in appreciation of all he has done for the golf club this year.

The annual Willow Creek Country Club fall membership meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 15, at 7:30 at the Columbia Basin conference room.

Former Fillies playing for BMCC

Three former Heppner Fillies are playing on the Blue Mt. Community College volleyball team this year. Ellen Arbogast, Dana Reid and Lana Reid may be seen at October 22, November 5, and November 14 games at the Pendleton college.

County Agent's Corner

By County Ag Agent Fred Lundin

-The fall webworm is out and about these days. They are similar to tent caterpillars in that they build tent-like webbing on tree branches and feed on foliage inside the tent. They can severly injure or kill small trees and smaller branches.

The fall webworm is a pale yellow to brown caterpillar with a yellow stripe along each side and a dusky stripe along the back. They are about an inch long when fully grown.

The webbing can be cut out and burned, or the caterpillars can be controlled with insecticides: Diazinon, Sevin, and BT (Bacillus thuringiensis).

Spray as soon as the tents appear and use sufficient force to penetrate the webbing.

-Onions may be maturing in Morrow County soon, and successful storage is no accident. Onions that will go into storage are mature and ready to go into storage when their tops have fallen over. Pull the onions, shake the dirt off, and lay them in the garden for a week to dry out.

The onions are ready for storage when the neck has withered and the outer skin is dry and shiny. If you store them too soon, they will get moldy.

Don't confuse June-bearers with everbearing varieties (Quinault, Tillikum, Gem, Ogallala, Rockhill), which produce two crops, one in June, and another in late fall. Clean them up later, after the last harvest.

Remove all old dead plant material from the beds either by hand or by mowing with a rotary mower.

Apply a complete fertilizer (5-10-10 or 6-20-20) at one-half cup per ten feet of row. In general, one application per year is adequate for strawberries. Excessive foliage growth and poor fruit production results from spring applications of fertilizer.

Keep the onions in a dry place between 35° and 50°F. They should be kept in mesh bags, or slatted crates. Paper bags or cardboard boxes won't work.

If roots appear, the conditions are too moist. If the tops sprout, it is too warm. In either case, the onions will deteriorate if they are not moved.

In proper storage, onions will keep all winter.

-June bearing strawberries (Marshall, Northwest, Hood, Shuksan, Ranier) bear fruit only in late spring or early summer. When they have yielded their last berry, it's time to clean up the strawberry beds.
