Nurses complete

Heart Assoc. class

Four Registered Nurses from Pioneer Memorial Hospital have successfully completed a course of instruction in Advanced Cardiac Life Support. The course consisted of cognitive as well as performance standards as established by the American Heart Association. In order to receive certification the nurses had to pass a written test and have satisfactory performance at skill stations. Nurses completing the class included Sandi Hanna, Kathleen Lowe, Sheree Smith, and Sheridan Tarnasky.

A basic coronary care class at Walla Walla Community College was completed by the same nurses December 2. This class included a comprehensive overview of the cardiovascular system including anatomy and physiology, diseases, drugs used in emergencies and diagnostic procedures.

15th annual Artifactory now history

By Justine Weatherford

Judging by the number of cars parked around the fairgrounds buildings on snowy, icy Saturday, Dec. 6, the American Association of University Women's 15th annual Artifactory looked very busy. According to Karen Beck of AAUW the craft sale went well. Many of those who rented table space were happy with their selling; a few were somewhat disappointed. Santa was very evident all during the sale hours and was passing out candy canes. The lunch and coffee and pie tables were well filled.

AAUW uses its funds to aid worthy and needy scholars and for other worthwhile projects.

The busy members of the Heppner Garden Club had made many wreaths to fill advance orders which people picked up on Saturday. During that day members assisted neophytes with wreath making. Mary Goheen, who served as cashier for the workshop, said the club treasury did fairly well from this only, annual money-making project. Hand-made candles are still available by contacting Martha Doherty.

Heppner Garden Club raises funds to help make the county fair more attractive and educational and to beautify the community's main street and new park area. The gardeners also have established a scholarship fund for qualified scholars who will continue education in fields related to horticulture. The high school counselors of the area have information about this fund. Individuals may learn more about it from Heppner Garden Club President Jane Rawlins or from Mary Goheen of the club's scholarship committee.

Attends hair clinic

The professional, finished look is coming back, Barbara Gutierrez, beautician at Country Shears says. She attended a one-day hair clinic in Pasco recently where she learned techniques for all the latest designer perms for women, clipper cuts for men, and other designs featured in the National Hairdressers Assoc. magazine.

By Delpha Jones

The Morrow County Historical Society met on Monday evening at the home of Jim and Barbara Bloodworth for the regular meeting and Christmas party. Following a delicious dinner a short business meeting was held. Judge Don McElligott gave an update on the Cecil bridge.

Jean Nelson gave an update on the County's cemeteries. Anyone with relatives buried in any of the smaller cemeteries please contact Mrs. Nelson, as many of the markers have been destroyed.

An election of officers was held with the following being elected: President Delpha Jones, Vice President Harold Peck, Secretary-Treasurer Ruth McCabe.

A report on the Hitching Post at Hager's was heard from Mrs. Nelson.

An appreciation gift was presented Don and Eunice McElligott for their help to the Society. An exchange of gifts was enjoyed. The next meeting will be at the Jean Nelson home in March.

Christmas basket donations needed

Donations for Christmas baskets to be distributed locally need to be at the Heppner Neighborhood Center by December 19. The Center distributed Thanksgiving baskets this year for the first time so began food drives earlier, but there is still a need for donated items. The baskets usually include items the family needs for a Christmas dinner and toys for the children. There is a need for more boys toys this year, a Center spokesperson said. The Center has several dolls but very few toy trucks or cars.
