Chamber Chatter

by Claudia Hughes
Chamber Manager

Jack Frost is about these cold, crisp mornings. Before you grimace at having to scrape your car windows, take a look at the snowflake formations. Each one is an intricate work of art designed to keep you busy while your windows defrost.

School children entertained Chamber this past Tuesday with Christmas songs. Many entertainers get their start in a grade school choir. This is one of many items that will take a cut if the school levy is defeated January 13. The chain of events that would follow would devastate our community. Each and every concerned citizen is encouraged to attend the Town Hall meeting in lone, December 22. This is the opportunity to get the "straight goods" on the major concerns that threaten to divide Morrow County. Speakers will present hard facts. It's time to focus on unity and building on the many assets Morrow County has by working together. Hopefully, it will be the beginning of many such meetings throughout the county and an effective way to make changes for positive results.

Our enthusiastic Park Board is now in the process of completing the detailed final costs and design of Willow Creek Park. Through all the controversy over the dam and lake, this extraordinary recreational resource is now the focus of tourism for Heppner and the highway through the Blue Mountains to Baker. Any person interested in the Willow Creek Park project should contact Ken Turner, 676-9710. Park Board meets first and third Tuesdays of each month at 7 p.m. Columbia Basin Board room.

Thought for the week: "The only time you can't afford to fail is the last time you try."
