All members of the community are invited to attend and make recommendations regarding programs to be funded by the Juvenile Service Commission in the next biennium 1987-89, said a group spokesperson.

The meeting will also provide an opportunity for interested persons to ask questions they might have regarding the programs currently being sponsored by the commission. Anyone interested in making a proposal for a new program may contact Pam Minster, Carolyn Holt at the courthouse, or Diana Ball, or may pick up an outline for the proposal at the court house.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Hughes
Chamber Board met for an intense new year planning session last Wednesday. The agenda covered goals and philosophy; budget; membership; evaluation of Chamber Manager (I'm still here); discussion with Heppner Economic Development Corp members on integration of Chamber and HEDC; by-laws, and committee assignments. Goals will be presented to the Chamber membership during the January 6 business meeting for their evaluation. Major concerns were to keep Heppner's present businesses, maintain health services and support our schools and economic development. Completion of hotel project, promotion of park district, and encouraging tourism were priorities as were increased liaison with city, county, HEDC, and merchants. Chamber hopes to be a "good sturdy roof" over Heppner. If we all work together, learn to be flexible, and focus on a common goal, there's no end to what we can accomplish. No Chamber December 30, rest up and get ready for a working session January 6. Most important of all, have a Merry Christmas.
