Former HHS grad advises seniors

By Avon Melby

An attractive, poised and successful young woman who attended the annual Soroptimist-sponsored Senior Girls Luncheon in 1961 as a Heppner High School graduate, returned last week to offer advice and encouragement to the girls of the class of 1987.

Ferne Healy is now the director of special education for the Roseburg School System.

Having taught in larger schools, she told the seniors they had many advantages by attending a smaller school. "You have the opportunity to be involved in many more activities which in turn help you develop leadership skills, which will benefit you throughout life," she said.

In larger schools students are unable to participate in more than a couple of activities. They may become highly skilled in one or two areas, but they are not exposed to the variety. "It is a distinct advantage to have a broad variety of experiences to be a well rounded person." There is plenty of time to develop expertise later.

Self confidence, believing in one's self, is necessary to face life. "You must recognize that you are a capable person, you must remember that as you approach the challenges of life."

"Don't be afraid to dream of what could be, for it is through this process that we set goals for ourselves and develop plans to achieve them."

Determination is necessary to achieve goals in life. "It is unrealistic to think there won't be obstacles in your way, but if you are determined and believe in yourself and your abilities, you will realize that the setbacks are only temporary. You will continue to search for ways to surmount obstacles, ultimately overcoming them."

She quoted the American naturalist philosopher Henry David Thoreau, "If one advances confidently in the direction of her dreams and endeavors to live the life which she imagined, she will meet with success."

"This," Healy said, "holds true for all aspects of life; marriage, social relations and career achievements."

Obtaining training beyond high school is of paramount importance, in Healy's belief. "Whether you intend to work throughout your life or not, prepare yourself for some type of vocation or career," she advised.

It is necessary to either continue formal education or obtain on the job training. "Prepare yourself with some specific job skills." There are no guarantees in life. You never know what you may find yourself responsible for the sole support of yourself and/or your family. Even if you never work outside the home, it is like an insurance policy, you have it if you need it. Being prepared will make it possible to earn a higher salary. You will have more to offer an employer.

"Believe in yourself. If you think you can, or if you think you can't you're right," was her final advice.

Ferne Alberts graduated in 1961, married her high school sweetheart, Mike Healy in 1963, graduated from the University of Oregon with a bachelor of elementary education in 1966 and received her masters in special education at the same university in 1974. She taught grade school for four years and special education for five. In 1978 she took night classes to study school administration. For eight years she was a program supervisor in the Roseburg special education department before advancing to her present position as director last year.

Twenty-eight Heppner High School seniors and their mothers attended the luncheon. Soroptimist President Ann Spicer was master of ceremonies.

Angie Pedro sang two numbers, "May You Always" and "Born Free", accompanied by Liz Curtis. All Saints Episcopal Parish hall was decorated with spring flowers by Vi Wilgers for the occasion.

All Saints' tells scheduling changes

Office hours at All Saints' Episcopal Church will be 8:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. April 27-30.

Starting April 26, Sunday school for pre-schoolers through fourth grades will be during the 10:30 a.m. worship service instead of at 9:30 until further notice.

A film on the Bishop's World Relief fund will be shown during the April 26 morning prayer service.

Museum offers April 25 genealogy workshop

By Justine Weatherford

Are you interested in family history? Do you know how to organize and keep on-going genealogical records? This Saturday, April 25, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. the Morrow County Museum offers expert help with the interesting and often very valuable pursuit of keeping family records.

Genealogist Lois Masters will instruct and assist everyone and will have basic, standard forms available at no charge. She will also show a short film about family research.

Lois Masters will come from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day-Saints in Hermiston where she has worked for a long time with the outstanding, world-wide, family research the Mormon Church has organized and is continually enlarging.

You don't need to bring anything with you except maybe some questions about your family, maybe a notebook and pencil or pen.

This Saturday workshop will recess one-half hour at noon for lunch, according to Alma Green, Museum Commission chairman.

Sans Souci hosts district Rebekahs

Friday, April 17, Sans Souci Rebekah Lodge No. 33 hosted the District meeting. There were 30 Rebekah sisters present, including State President Carol Ann Alley, from Burns, who was making her official visit.

Honored during the meeting were past district chairmen and 50 year members.

A luncheon was served at noon.

Lodge reconvened at 1 p.m. when more business was attended to.

Sans Souci put on a style show, modeling intricately embroidered and banded robes belonging to the lodge. These robes are at least 60 years old. Sans Souci Lodge has been in existence 100 years this year. A history of the lodge was given in conjunction to the style show.

New members are welcome. Anyone interested in "Taking Off Pounds Sensibly" may contact any of the above officers for information.

Ione TOPS install officers

Betty Kirby, Fossil TOPS area coordinator was at Ione to install new officers at a candlelight ceremony. Officers are: Dianna Hams, Leader; Judy Picknell, co-leader; Lorraine Ball, Secretary; Teresa King, Treasurer; and Alvina Padberg weight recorder.

Seventeen members including two pre-teenagers are busy with fund raising projects to purchase charm awards and help send four members to Seaside in May. A crocheted table cloth, made and donated by Linda Cupps, was won by John Haddle of Ione.

The club is planning a booth for the annual Fourth of July celebration at Ione.

New members are welcome. Anyone interested in "Taking Off Pounds Sensibly" may contact any of the above officers for information.
