Jim's Jewish Roots-continued

We pick up our history as Obediah Farley sits watching a crowd of Jews following the red-bearded man on the banks of the Red Sea. To his amazement the sea divides and through the middle is a space the size of an 8 lane freeway, and it was getting larger and longer. Obediah decided he should flee his captors and join the crowd as they started to cross between the parted waters. He rounded up 20 of his master's finest camels and drove them onto the beach and mingled with the crowd then headed for the Promised Land. There were considerable amounts of aged people, and as the journey progressed they began to tire; Obediah seized on this opportunity and rented 'his' camels at exorbitant prices.
