

Hall sisters lead Pennsylvania team "A New Look" at Country Shears

Jodi and Linda Hall, formerly of Wallowa, co-captained the State College, Pennsylvania ninth grade girls basketball team. The ninth grade league is played in the fall of the year because of availability of gymnasiums and coaches. The league is open for 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls, though dominated by 9th graders. Their division consists of 12 schools, with 7-9 grade enrollments of 1200 and over.

Jodi, a ninth grader, is the team's starting high post. She led the team in both scoring and rebounds with 10.5 points per game combined with 12 rebounds per game.

Linda, the only seventh grader to make the team, started at point guard. She is the team and league leader in steals and assists. She averaged nine steals per game with seven assists. She also averages six points and four rebounds per game.

The Hall sisters spend time in Heppner during the summer with their grandparents, Gene and Harriet Hall.

Randy Bells gives Christi Stroeber a new look was the guest stylist. Randy is an educator and travels extensively giving seminars throughout the northwest.

A long day of new hair styles and the introduction of new products was enjoyed by a number of younger and older patrons interested in seeing what is "in" in the hair world. Later in the day, they adjourned to the shop where Jan and her operator, Barb Zeller, styled hair along with Randy.

Jan Stroeber, owner of Country Shears, wanted to "thank everyone for coming and hoping they enjoyed her efforts in getting Randy to join them". "We were very lucky to be able to get him." Randy will be back in Heppner sometime this spring and more information will be available at that time.

Jan will be going to Portland in February to spend a day at "The Mane" with Randy observing him at work. She is looking forward to this opportunity to add to her knowledge of styling products.

Bells was quoted as saying "you are very lucky to have someone who cares as much about hair care as Jan does".

Christian women meet

Around 140 people enjoyed the salad dinner sponsored by the Episcopal church women.

The Episcopal Church Women did their usual good job on the Fall salad buffet that was held November 11 at the Episcopal parish hall. The evening began with mulled cider being served at the door. There was a large selection of beautifully garnished salads set among the fall decorations of dried flowers and leaves.

The program presented by Robert and Ida Sue Scott was very enjoyable to all present. The Scotts gave a very personal insight to living in Israel where they were for three years with their children.

Sharon Fetterly sang three very lovely musical selections to round out the evening and door prizes were drawn.
