Locals appointed to statewide 4-H committees

Nancy Miller, Ione; Geri Grieb, Lexington; Gladys Hobbs, Gibb Evans and Rolinda Meakins, all of Irrigon, have been appointed to Statewide 4-H committees, according to Duane Johnson, OSU Extension 4-H Program Leader, Corvallis. Miller will serve on the state 4-H recognition committee. She will be involved in the selection of 4-H members for state and national awards, including trips to National 4-H Congress. Grieb is a new member of the state 4-H Livestock development committee. The committee is charged with reviewing programs and activities in such 4-H projects as beef, sheep, swine and dairy.

Meakin is serving on the state 4-H horse development committee which deals with educational programs and activities for the state's largest single 4-H project. Hobbs and Evans are members of state 4-H camping task force. The task force is reviewing camping programs at both the county and state level. They are among the more than 200 adult volunteer leaders, older 4-H members, OSU faculty and others serving on state development committees and task forces, adds Johnson. The groups are advisors to the state 4-H staff.

Extension club met at Munkers home

By Delpha Jones
 The Rhea Creek extension met at the home of Bebe Munkers on Wednesday with Verna Brinda acting as co-hostess. A most informative and enjoyable program was held on the buying and cooking of seafoods. The hostesses gave hints on which seafoods were most enjoyable in the various dishes discussed. They cleaned and prepared a squid for cooking. During the luncheon, squid soup was served with the other dishes being potluck. A birthday cake was served in honor of Judy Stevens and the group sang "Happy Birthday". Suggestions for topics for the coming year were discussed and plans for district meeting to be held March 30 in Irrigon.

KLUE to make debut at Elks Saturday

After the disbanding of the TAKE IV band, the two remaining members, Scott Arnonson (LaGrande) and Kevin Gutierrez (Heppner) have assembled another band that promises to be a big success. The last engagement for the TAKE IV band was on December 31, 1987, which was also the last engagement for Keyboardist Jim Ackley former Heppner music teacher, and Rick Myer, Bassist who is now teaching elementary education in LaGrande. The new band named KLUE will consist of Scott Arnonson (lead guitar and vocals), Kevin Gutierrez, (drums and vocals), and new members Steve Sather of Heppner (lead guitar, vocals), Tim Hines (bass guitar and vocals) and Paula Spaulding (keyboards and vocals), both of LaGrande. KLUE has been rehearsing since the first of the year incorporating the new talent and new songs and although they have already performed in Baker the last two weekends. They will be making their first Heppner debut at the Heppner Elks on Saturday.

2nd grade classes study geography

Mrs. Calvert's and Mrs. Krein's second grade class at Heppner Grade School, made and assembled this mock city and transported it to First Interstate Bank and Bank of Eastern Oregon where they are on display. The class has been studying geography in class, and learning new terms, such as suburbia, inner city and ghettos, among others. The children made and assembled the city, naming the streets and the town.
