Holly Rebekah Lodge PNG club held a luncheon on Saturday, June 11 for visiting PNG clubs in the area. Those attending were Integrity of Milton-Freewater with seven members present, Pauline of Pendleton with four members present, Bunchgrass of Lone with seven present and five of the Holly members were present. The tables were lovely with centerpieces of flowers and candles with pink napkins. The door prize was won by Edith Matthews of Bunchgrass and the afternoon was spent visiting and playing bingo. Everyone went home with a prize. The dessert was a lovely decorated cake with a spray of flowers and the words "Welcome Rebekahs."

Donna Papineau who recently had major surgery in Walla Walla, and was a patient in Smith's Nursing Home while taking treatments, had major surgery again on Friday, and is reported to be recuperating well.

Holly Lodge will meet on Thursday evening for the last meeting until September. This is the birthday meeting and a potluck with the Oddfellows. We hope to have a good crowd in attendance.

The Garden Bugs met at the home of Bertha Gates on Tuesday for their regular meeting. A most interesting report was heard from Lois Allen on a 30 minute garden, concerning landscaping, etc. The group planned their trip to Peterson's Rock Gardens on Tuesday. Dorothy Burcham won the door prize. Those present were Marie Steagall, Eula Bloodworth, Delpha Jones, Lois Allen, Luella Taylor, Marge Ball, Delta Huber, Kathy Tellechea and Dorothy Burcham. Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess.

Morrow County 4-H'ers attending summer week

More than 500 Oregon 4-H members and volunteer leaders will be at Oregon State University June 13-18 for the annual 4-H Summer Week program, according to Barbara Boltes, OSU Extension 4-H and youth specialist.

Eight Morrow County 4-H'ers are attending: A.J. Tarnasky, Rick Osmen, Bill Ammons, Dawn Ammons, Carmen Britt, Debi Driver, Mikka Evans, and Kevin Tucker. Theme of the 70th annual event is "Toward the '90's" and senior 4-H members will spend part of each morning in groups discussing the shape of Summer Week in the coming decade, Boltes said.

The program will climax on Friday when the young people attend a career fair dressed as their futures, Boltes said. During the remainder of the time, the 4-H'ers will attend more than 80 different classes taught by volunteers and OSU faculty and staff members on such subjects as photography, international affairs, personal development and physical fitness.

Running concurrently with Summer Week will be the 4-H Member Horse Workshop for young people in the horse project interested in learning more about animal health, feed and riding.

Other highlights of the week will include a 4-H talent show, a Summer Week celebration on the Memorial Union quad Friday afternoon and a sports night. The young people will leave Corvallis Saturday morning, June 18.

Enterprise artist to teach felting

Tori Crawford of Enterprise will be teaching a one-day felting workshop under the auspices of Blue Mountain Community College. Participants will make either slippers, a bowl or a vest and must have their wool picked and carded into batts before class. BMCC Coordinator

Marsha Sweek can arrange use of acarder for those who require one. The workshop will take place Saturday, July 16, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuition will be $15. Call BMCC Coordinator for the supply list and to register, 676-5039.

Fran Barnett and her sister Anna Schwarzin, were whisked away to Nelson, Canada, B.C. this weekend. Without a clue to their destination, Fran and Anna and their parents found themselves traveling for the weekend without an itinerary to places far from home. A busload of the most adventurous joined together for the weekend Mystery Tour, unaware of who, what, where, when, but "why" was obvious, just pure fun.

Saturday, June 11, Beecher Emert arrived in lone with a nostalgic "Howdy, Folks! How Ya'all?". Emert was home to celebrate his 80th birthday with relatives, and friends. The party was given by sister, Pat Pettyjohn and daughter Lorraine Ball. Niece, Marsha White assisted and the party was a great success. Great-nephew Andy Emert played fiddle, and Uncle
