Abby Kahl, Heppner, was the winner of the cedar chest, made by Robert Reid, sponsored by the VFW.

Mick Delaney

Town and Country Speaker

"The Future: It Ain't What It Used To Be" is the topic of Mick Delaney's talk scheduled for the Town and Country banquet on Friday, January 13. Mr. Delaney is a veteran of over twenty years of banquet talks.

"We feel we have the best dinner speaker yet," said Wayne Evans, chairman of the Town and Country Days steering committee. "Delaney's speeches are upbeat, positive and funny. The dinner ought to be the highlight of the week, and we think it will be."

Mick Delaney grew up on an Iowa farm and worked for many years for the Caterpillar Tractor Company in Illinois. He is currently a Seattle resident.

The Town and Country banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m., Friday, January 13. Tickets are available at retail stores in town for $11 or can be purchased at the door.

Other events of Town and Country Days are a Chamber of Commerce Installation of Officers lunch on Tuesday, January 10; a wine tasting on Thursday evening, January 12, which includes the judging of the beards, and entertainment by "Soused of the Border", a local jazz band; and a youth panel discussion on Friday at lunch featuring several local high school members.

The theme of the Town and Country Days is "Our Future, Our Country, Our Kids".

Commodity group meetings will all be on Friday and are open to the public. In addition, the Port of Morrow, the Willow Creek Park District, the Merchants Committee, and the South Morrow Toastmasters Club all will meet during the week, and all actively encourage nonmembers to attend their meetings.
