Wheatland Pomona Grange met at the Clarno Grange hall on Saturday April 29 for a regular meeting with the Master, Annabelle Jaeger, in the chair.

Officers were noted absent and members pro-tem were appointed. Celia Luttrell, Oregon State Grange secretary, and her husband Ed Luttrell State Grange gatekeeper (they are also the Oregon State Youth of the Year) and Sharon Mahan, Eastern Oregon State deputy, and Barton Clark, member of the State Agriculture committee were escorted to the Master's station introduced and welcomed.

Officers reports were heard, which consisted of much activity of all the grange. Greenfield has completed their new floor, and painted the eaves of the hall, held a 70th anniversary party of the Grange, and a GWA conference.

Willows Grange has been very busy with various dinners and projects and also keep their hall ready at all times for other meetings.

Mikkalo has held all their meetings and have been busy with the Grange work.

Lexington Grange has held all their meetings and members have been busy with community affairs.

Spray has held their annual auction, dinners and other activities. Recognized were the subordinate Masters, Ronald Rolfe of Clarno, Gus Strecker, of Spray, and William Alford of Greenfield.

State Deputy reported that she and her husband attended Umattilla Pomona, Abernathy Grange where 46 candidates were initiated, visited Greenfield and Willows and attended the G.W.A. conference in Greenfield. Dot Halvorsen the Overseer, has done visiting at Greenfield for their anniversary party, Abernathy Grange and Lexington.

There were two resolutions read, Veteran Hospital Funding, which dwells on the budget cut, so that the Veteran Hospital cannot function properly. Recommend that the government and veterans administration see that these medical centers are financed properly, for the benefits of all veterans. Presented by Lexington Grange and approved by the Pomona, progress reports for adopted resolutions from Klamath County Pomona, concerning a report in the bulletin regarding the status of adopted resolutions and their progress through the channels. Adopted by the body and a thank you to Clarno for the bountiful dinner and hospitality adopted by the body. Resolution committee is William Alford, Gus Strecker and Barton Clark.

Cecil Jones was elected insurance delegate to Grange Mutual at State session in Enterprise with Delpha Jones alternate. Barton Clark was elected alternate voting delegate to the State session from Pomona.

Annabelle invited the granges to a reception at the Gilliam County Museum honoring Katherine Jaeger on her 90th birthday July 23 starting at 1 p.m.

Ed Luttrell had a few words on the recent initiation from the 1873 manuals which was put on in various granges throughout the state by the Youth of the Grange. The work was done quite differently then, and the men and women were not brought in together but each group separately. Celia told the group of the work at State headquarters and that there is much discussion now on the ritualistic work of the Grange. Sharon Mahan talked on membership and the importance of keeping the members we have, and encourage new members. She urged all Pomonas to have conference.

A book "Proud Heritage" is on sale and dwells with the Grange and its beginning. The group voted to buy one, and if it is interesting to grangers and non-grangers alike the book may be purchased and donated to the various libraries.

The program was on "Wheat for Peace" and was a slide presentation by Van Rietmann of Condon, who narrated the slides. He told of the need and the ways one could go about helping this project.

Wilma Martin told how all could be healthier, thinner and more beautiful by eating wheat.
