

Stokes Landing Seniors earn conservation plaque

By Beth Stephens
Oregon State Federation Garden Clubs Dist. 10 recently presented the 1990 Conservation Award plaque to Stokes Landing Seniors, who have a recycling program.
A recycling program has been in operation since 1973 at Irrigon. Many seniors have worked on collecting cardboard, tin, glass and aluminum. Cardboard boxes are flattened, newspapers are tied in bundles, tin cans are washed and flattened and glass is sorted and crushed.

Chester Wilson says "25 1/4 tons of recycling material went through our hands during 1989."
Stokes Landing Senior Center receives a steady monthly income for this project.

Ione Insights

By Anne Morter, 422-7429

--A farewell party for Renee Van Leersum, exchange student from Holland, was held on the Ione school grounds on June 19. Cheryl Anderson and Linda Cupps hosted the cookout and a good crowd of high school friends and classmates turned out to see Renee off.

--With the Class A/B All Star team in town to practice with coach of the year, Dana Heideman, basketball players were farmed out with local families. Ken and Julie Nelson, Virgil and Debbie Morgan and Perry and Kathy Morter each kept two players and Dana and Tonya Heideman kept four girls and the assistant coach, Dale Wagner.

--Kelly Morgan, Ryan and Jason Halvorsen and Aaron and Nathan Heideman attended basketball camp on the WSU campus June 18-21. Frank and Kathy Halvorsen delivered the boys to Pullman and Debbie and Virgil Morgan brought them home.

--Norman and Helen Morter of Springfield, VA., spent last week visiting the Perry Morter family. Perry and Norman are brothers. The Norman Morters drove across the country visiting relatives and sightseeing.

--Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Snively, College Place, WA., enjoyed Sunday dinner with the Perry Morters. The Snivelys came to visit with Norman and Helen Morter while they were here.

--Mary Pat, Will and 14-month-old Sarah Boger of Fairbanks, Alaska, spent a week visiting at the home of Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick McElligott.

--Patric McElligott, along with daughters, Rose and Hope, visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don McElligott recently. The girls were joined by their cousins, Brian, Ben and Janet McElligott while Patric attended the Big River Band Festival in Arlington. Patric hosted a booth for Amity Vineyards, his employer.

--Bridget and Melissa McElligott attended Junior High Leadership Camp at Wallowa Lake during the week of June 25-29.

--Jean Jepsen accompanied her daughter Judy to McMinnville the weekend of June 15-16 to attend the Oregon 4-H Ambassador weekend. The conference was held at Linfield College.

Water meeting set June 28

Morrow County will be hosting a water meeting on June 28, at 7 p.m. in the Lexington Grange Hall, located at Cutsforth Corner. The subjects of water quantity, quality and availability in Morrow County will be addressed by a panel of experts, consisting of Bill Young, Water Resources Department; Representative Chuck Norris; Clint Reeder, Chairman of Advisory Committee on Water Quality, D.E.Q.; and Scott Duff, Oregon Wheat League.

"Here is your opportunity to ask questions, learn and be involved in the future use, regulation of that use, and administration of forthcoming state rules," said Morrow County Extension agent Bill Broderick.

Lutheran's hold service at Cutsforth Park

The congregations of Hope Lutheran Church of Heppner and Valby Lutheran Church of Ione will have a joint worship service on Sunday, July 1 at 10 a.m. at Cutsforth Park. Take the highway going behind Willow Creek Dam for about 20 miles. Pastor Hoobing's sermon will be on the theme of "A Kingdom of Priests and a Holy Nation," based on the theme from Exodus 19:2-8a.

After the service of Holy Communion, the congregation will enjoy a potluck picnic. Persons attending are asked to bring their own table service, main dish and either a salad or dessert. Games will be played as members bring balls, bats, horseshoes, etc. Coffee and kool-aid will be provided.

Among the special guests at the picnic will be Carol, Rachel and Matt Hoobing who have now come to live in South Morrow County with Pastor Hoobing.

Visitors and friends are most welcome to join the festivities.

No worship services will be held at Hope or Valby on July 1. Anyone missing the festivities is cordially invited to join us on Wednesday, July 4 at 8:45 p.m. for an informal service.
