

BMCC offers tennis camp

Youths from fourth to twelfth grade are eligible to participate in the Blue Mountain Community College Youth Tennis Camp offered in Pendleton. The session will be held July 30 through August 9, Monday through Thursday mornings at the BMCC tennis courts.

Players will learn sound tennis basics, ground strokes, swing, and game strategies. They will need their own racket, but do not need to know how to play the game. For more information contact the BMCC Pendleton Center at 276-1260.

Food poisoning strikes in summer

Food poisoning often strikes in the summer months when temperatures are warm and picnics are frequent says Carol Bennett, Oregon State University extension agent in Morrow County.

According to Carolyn Raab, O.S.U. Extension foods and nutrition specialist, four simple rules can keep picnic food safe to eat.

Rule 1. Keep it clean. Dirty hands can spread the hepatitis virus and bacteria to food. Wash your hands after using the toilet. Take soap and water with you if none will be available at your picnic site.

If you handle raw meat, poultry or seafood, wash your hands afterwards, too. That advice also goes for utensils and plates. Cooking destroys bacteria that are naturally present on raw animal products. If you reuse dirty plates, you'll be transferring bacteria back to your food.

Rule 2. Cook it well. Make sure that you cook meat, poultry and seafood thoroughly to destroy Salmonella and other bacteria. Cook meat to a medium or well-done stage. Poultry is done when it is no longer pink and the juice is clear-colored. Cook fish until it turns opaque and flakes.

If you're barbecuing, consider precooking in the oven first. You'll then be able to barbecue just long enough to add flavor without burning to a crisp to guarantee doneness.

Rule 3. Don't wait... refrigerator.

Keep hot foods hot (above 140 degrees.) Refrigerate leftovers promptly. Bacteria will have a chance to grow if moist, protein-rich food is left at room temperature longer than 2 to 3 hours.

Rule 4. If in doubt, throw it out. Don't take chances. If you aren't sure about the safety of your picnic leftovers, throw them out. These people are more likely to get food poisoning if they eat them: pregnant women; infants and young children; frail elderly; persons with cancer or AIDS.
