By John Qualls
The Heppner Ponies played their fifth game against the Echo Cougars Thursday, Oct. 18 at Echo, losing 44-14.

As the Cougars kicked to the Ponies the ball bounced off the 30 yard line and eighth grader Chris Dickenson grabbed the ball and dashed up the middle for the first touchdown of the game. Dickenson also made the extra point plowing through the line to the end zone to make it 8-0. The Ponies were all fired up when they kicked off the ball which leaped through the air until the Cougars picked it up and bolted up the field only to see eight red jerseys coming straight at him. The Ponies defense took control of the field and the Cougars were unable to advance forward. Unfortunately the Ponies offense wasn't able to score. The Cougars gained possession of the ball and moved up field until they threw an awesome 25-yard pass for a touchdown. The Cougars crunched through the line for the extra point. Minutes later the Cougars ran it in for the touchdown but were unable to connect for the extra point. Again the Cougars kicked the ball to the Ponies. The Ponies brought the ball to the 35 yard line but were unsuccessful in gaining any more yards. The Cougars took possession again and passed for another touchdown. The extra point was no good.

The Ponies quarterback Matt Keersema handed the ball off to Ethan Burnside who ran for a touchdown but the Ponies missed the extra point. The Ponies kicked to the Cougars who scored on the run minutes later but didn't score the extra point. Organize valuable papers

Someone estimated eight months of one's life is spent looking for things. Who knows if it is really eight months, but at some time, we all have had the experience of looking for an important paper--something that's "got to be here somewhere."

Every family has many important papers related to personal finances, property ownership, and other business affairs. Good management includes organizing these records and valuable papers, points Carol Bennett, Oregon State University extension agent in Morrow County.

Examples of important papers are wills, insurance policies, bank accounts, mortgages, birth and marriage certificates, medical records, and employment records, explains Alice Mills, Morrow OSU Extension family economics specialist.

The OSU Extension Service has two publications to assist families in organizing their records. "Organizing Your Family Records" (EC 1302, 75c) will help you know which of your records are important and how to arrange a storage system for easy access.

"Do You Know Your Valuable Papers?" (EC 1234, no cost) is an inventory form, used to record where records are stored.

Organizing your records will help you avoid the frustration of hunting for papers and might eliminate or reduce confusion during a crisis. Remember, during a crisis someone else may have to step in and manage your personal financial affairs; an organized system for your records will be extremely helpful.

The Adventures of Grazelda & Clem

(After Hours)
5:00 a.m. - 11:00 p.m.

Grazelda gushed, "Gee Clem, I had a heck of a time getting into Miller's Mini Mart & Chevron to get my goodies. What are all them folks doing in town?"

Clem explained, "Why them folks are hunting for the great elusive bull elk." Grazelda snorted, "I'll bet them folks would have better luck if they hunted for elk in the mountains instead of in town! Clem also snorted, "I doubt it!"
