Cellular phone system soon available in county

Construction of United States Cellular's $1.5 million cellular telephone system in northeastern Oregon is nearly complete, announced John Miller, market manager for United States Cellular Yakima/Tri-Cities, WA. Miller will also resume responsibility for managing the new Oregon markets.

"Cellular towers have been built and the system will be switched on upon Federal Communications Commission (FCC) approval," said Miller. It is anticipated that the FCC will grant approval by the end of the year.

United States Cellular will provide service to Morrow, Gilliam, Wheeler, Umatilla, Grant, Union, Wallowa, Baker and Malheur counties. Major highway systems that pass through the area connect Spokane with Portland and Boise with Reno.

United States Cellular has established offices in the Westward Ho Building, located at the corner of Main and Pendleton streets in

Wicked stepmother exception to rule

"Snow White's wicked stepmother is an exception to the rule in a typical stepparent," says Carol Bennett, Oregon State University Extension agent in Morrow County.

"The myth persists, however," Bennett said, "because we have grown up with stereotypes about stepparents. But the vast majority of stepparents don't harm their children. In fact, they want very much to be good parents."

The typical stepparenting mistake is in not being too demanding or mean-spirited, but in believing that, if they try hard enough, they can make everything right. When that doesn't happen, they feel frustrated and guilty.

Professionals who work with children need to be sensitive to their own attitudes toward stepparents. They need to ask if they automatically expect the worst.

"Stepparents need to realize that stepfamily stress and difficult relationships with children are typical. Rewards can come with time and good communication," Bennett stresses.

When stepparents don't communicate, children can feel anger and frustration over different rules. The families are less likely to develop a loving relationship when rule changes get in the way.

Taking time to find out about little routines is especially important if step children will be part of holiday events.

Mealtime rituals and food traditions: talk about such little things as who likes what, whether it's necessary to clean your plate, or the practice of trying a little of some new dish.

Bedtime routines: Know whether older children are allowed to stay up longer than younger ones, who has later hours allowed on certain nights, and who tucks who into bed.

Dressing: In one family, it may be acceptable to change clothes several times a day or to wear a different outfit each day. Other families may expect clothes to be worn more than once before laundering.

Homework, TV: Talk about parental supervision of homework and television viewing. Also know how much TV is allowed and who gets to watch what program.

Ione Pre-school holds first program

Ione Pre-School, in operation since November, held its first Christmas program Friday, December 21 at the United Church of Christ in Ione. Rikka Tews provided accompaniment, Irene Holtz provided refreshments and Tim Holtz was Santa's helper. Teacher is Debbie Holtz of Ione.

Eight four-year olds and six three-year-olds entertained an audience of relatives and friends with Christmas songs.

Four-year-olds are Nathan Rea, Curtis Thompson, Cyndie Tullis, Meghan McCabe, Johnny Collin, Billy Gates, A.J. Hendricks and Sarah Barrow. Three-year-olds are Alyssa Rietmann, Missy Baker, Kassie Paterson, Sara Peck, Arthur Eckstrom and Jase Jones.

Condon slams Fillies 42-19

By Lisa Willman

December 18, Heppner varsity Fillies played Condon in a very one sided ball game losing 42-19.

Condon took off with Kimmy Shannon sinking a three-pointer at the start of the first quarter. The defense was so tight the Fillies had problems getting a player open. It wasn't until halfway through first quarter that the Fillies' Heather Eckman shot from the top of the key to score her team's only points that quarter. At the end of the quarter the score was 2-7 Condon's favor.

The second quarter went a little better for the Fillies in that they managed to make five points and hold Condon to only three baskets, for a score of Fillies seven and Condon 15.

Coming back from the half time the Fillies started running a full court press. Condon, however, got through the press to sink some baskets and Heppner just couldn't get their shots to count. At the end of the quarter Condon was ahead by 17 points.

The fourth quarter went by quickly with Condon scoring all the points during the first seven minutes of play. In the last minute freshman Sara Greenup made both her foul shots for the first two points for the Fillies in the quarter. However there wasn't enough time for a comeback and Heppner lost to Condon 42-19.

High scorers for the Fillies were Heather Eckman with seven points and Amy Greenup with five. Condon's high scorers were Mardie Durfey, 19 points and teammate Shauna Wilkins tossing in nine points.

"Condon was bigger than us and could shoot better," stated coach Mark Dowdy. "I was just able to let all my girls play and give them the experience they needed."
