Seniors man concession stand for money maker during alumni tournament.

Monday, January 21, the Heppner High School senior class will be going door to door on a bottle drive. The class is earning money for a senior class trip to Disneyland in the spring. Anyone wishing to donate cans or bottles may leave them on the porch if they are not planning to be home.

According to organizer Susan Johnston, the class has already made their first installment payment of $1,500 toward the package tour. The students have a goal of $7,000. The class paid $1,500 on Feb. 20. Another $1,500 is scheduled for March 20 and the balance is due in April.

Other ongoing projects include selling tickets for a grocery raffle at

Flowering shrubs
Garden club topic

"Flowering Shrubs Suitable for Northeastern Oregon" was the topic presented by Phyllis Anderson at the Ione Garden Club on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at the home of Helen Martin with Lorraine Ladd as co-hostess. Hardy shrubs suitable for this area included lilac, forsythia, spirea, snowball, Oregon grape, quince, beauty bush, tamarix, cottoneaster, mock orange, Kerria, jasmine and red twig dogwood.

Reports on the Burning of the Green showed about 75 school children, teachers, club members and others present. It was also reported that Christmas swags were presented to nine businesses in Ione for the holidays.

Morrow County Fair theme will be "Catch the Pioneer Spirit" and members of Ione, Lexington and Heppner garden clubs are preparing the schedule for the 1991 Flower Show.

Pat Pettyjohn reported that she had contacted the Ione Elementary School to encourage participation in the Woodsey Owl and Smokey Bear poster contest and the conservation essay and poem contest.

By Jessica Sumner, Reporter
The Lexington Chefs 'R' Us had a meeting January 6. Club members worked on records. They also made cinnamon rolls, a messy project but well worth the effort and time.

Chris Rauch and Duane Neiffer

In November 1990 Chris Rauch and Duane Neiffer were elected to the Morrow Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Directors. Each one will serve four years beginning January 1991.

Chris was born and raised in Morrow County. He and his wife, Kathy, have a nine-month old son, Andre; and reside at North Lexington. Chris says he would like to get involved in the community from the agricultural side. He is a partner in Starvation Farms, which is dryland wheat and was 1989 Morrow County Conservation Farm of the Year. Chris is also vice president of the Shorthorn Association and a member of the Oregon Cattleman's Association.

Duane has lived in Morrow County off and on for 16 years. He and his wife Linda have three boys and have recently purchased 50 acres near Boardman. Duane said that a long time interest in conservation was one of the reasons he wanted to be on the board. He said that Morrow County's diverse topography and climate make conservation a challenge to meet the many needs of the county in forestry, wheat farming, new kinds of farming, vineyards, vegetable farming and the future water problems. Duane's diverse occupational experience should contribute to the Morrow Soil and Water Conservation District.
