To help solve our nation's education crisis, we're starting out small.

Expert studies have confirmed it. What children learn during their first few years can shape the rest of their lives. How they learn. How they interact socially. And, ultimately, how successful they are.

That's why the US WEST Foundation has created the Early Childhood Education Initiative. To help parents play a more positive role in their children's learning during the most critical years. So more children are better prepared for school. And are finishing school better prepared for life.

This program is working in cities and towns throughout Oregon in the form of the Oregon Family Resource Coalition. It's a program to which US WEST has donated over $100,000. And it's helping families from all walks of life, but especially those who may be economically vulnerable.

The Early Childhood Education Initiative is only part of US WEST's $26 million dedication to education. It may not solve the crisis, but it's a good place to start.

Making the most of your time.
