Ione Drama Club presents 'Daughters'

By Anne Morter
The Ione High School Drama Club presented one of its most unique theatrical events last Sunday evening when it staged "Daughters". The play, which used different staging and an entirely different format from other Ione productions, was a series of monologues dealing with the problems teenagers face today. Stars of "Daughters" were Tanya Anderson, Crystal Minster, Kari Morgan, Danielle Stefani, Heidi Orem, Heidi Nelson, Nancy Morter and Erika Bergstrom.
Drama Club Advisor Jim Raible, said he considered the production a success because it showed "new and different things to the kids and to the community" where theater is concerned. "I liked it because it was different. The script had the potential to be powerful," said Raible. He said the monologues covered serious, up-to-date topics. "It was real life people dealing with real life issues," he said.
"Daughters", written by Maya Levy, will be Raible's final production at Ione as he has resigned his position there.
