

Sherman Murrays makes saddle

Sherman Murray

Sherman Murray of Rhea Creek Saddlery displays saddle he made for the Morrow County Rodeo calf roping winner.

The saddle is donated each year by the Kinzua Corp. and this is the third year Murray's company has done the work.

"I know how sought after this award is," Murray said of the calf roping saddle. He mentioned that the saddle is very well known throughout rodeo circles, and that three members of his family, a brother and two nephews, have won it.

"It's a real pleasure for me to make these saddles, living in the county as I am," Murray said.

The saddle will go on display at Gardner's Mens Wear downtown Heppner before the rodeo.

Flower arranging contest Thursday

The flower arranging contest will be held at the Morrow County Fairgrounds at 11 a.m. Thursday, August 15, on the platform in the main building.

Information on the contest was omitted from the premium book.

Anyone is eligible to enter the contest. Contestants must bring all materials, such as cut plant materials, containers, holders, accessories and cutting knife or scissors. Fifteen minutes will be given for setting up, 25 minutes for making the arrangement and 10 minutes for cleanup and hearing the judge's comments. Completed arrangements are to remain on display until the exhibits are released on Sunday.

Premiums will be $4 for first, $3 for second and $2 for third.
