

Two volunteers exchange life back east for summer experience

David Susman

Sylvia Knust

Sylvia Knust, 20, and David Susman, 23, were "strangers in a strange land" this summer. The two, Sylvia from Urbana Illinois, and David from Boston, Massachusetts, gave up their summer to work as volunteers for the U.S. Forest Service in Heppner.

Sylvia, who is studying psychology at the University of Illinois at Urbana, said that she had never been farther west than Illinois. She has, however, been to Europe. Her parents, Herbert and Christa are German and were in Germany this summer. She also has a sister in London, and a brother in New York. She said that she wanted to try something "completely different" and wrote to several places volunteering her time. Shaun McKinney, with the Forest Service Planning Department called her up.

"There are hills here," said

Sylvia. "There (in Illinois) it's flatter than a corn field. We've only got one forest and it's about four hours away. There's so much more variety here." She also commented on the friendliness of the people, she added, "You don't have to lock your doors."

While in Heppner Sylvia was involved in conducting stream surveys and building fish structures and attended fire school, "hopefully to fight fires next summer," she says. She says that she has "met a lot of people and had a lot of fun" during her summer experience. "Shaun was incredibly patient," she added. "He had to explain everything to us." During their stay they lived at the Tupper Work Station.

David said that he wanted to come out West, and also saw a pamphlet listing volunteer work. He also commented that "the people here are a lot friendlier and there aren't any traffic lights." He is an English major and planned to return this week to his studies at Syracuse University in New York. His parents live in Maryland and he has two sisters in Massachusetts. David said that his summer experience "has been helpful. I didn't know that much about the forest."

While in Oregon they were able to visit Cannon Beach, Pendleton and the Tri-Cities in Washington.

McKinney has had previous summer volunteers.

Local man owns Thrifty Auto

Scott Sherer, Ione, has entered the automotive parts business in a big way. He is now part owner of Thrifty Auto Supply in Hermiston, formerly Eastside Auto.

After graduation from Ione High School in 1979, Scott attended Mt. Hood Community College in Gresham. He was offered a scholarship by Thrifty Auto, and after graduation went to work for six years managing a store in Vancouver, WA. The opportunity to manage a store in Hermiston came, and he took it. He, along with his crew of five, built up the store in Hermiston, which will be having

Many attend Jones family reunion

Sixty people attended the second Jones family reunion at LaPine State Park south of Bend June 23-29. The days were filled with sightseeing potlucks and visiting. The evenings were spent by the campfire of Gary and Doris Jones. Saturday, July 29 there was a potluck at the Senior Center in LaPine. After the potluck many returned to their homes and others continued to other places or returned to the park for a few days.

Paul, Marcel, Floyd, Vallis, Lois and Loma May are the children of Charley and Marvel (Miller) Jones who spent all of their married life in the Heppner area.

Attending the reunion were Paul and Blanch Jones and Floyd and Lorena Jones. Heppner: Vallis Washburn, Philomath; Lois Graybeal, Ukia, Ca. and Irv and Loma May Chalfant of Indiana. Marcel was unable to attend. Others were Gary and Doris Jones and Holly Phil, Heather and Tyler Shockley of Hood River; Ray and Linda Jones, Hermiston; Linda and Rick Blake, Seattle, WA.; Ron Jones, Sweet Home; David, Judy, Amy and Heather Demming, Portland; Gay, Joyce and Judy Weaver, Brookings; Janet Peterson and friend Stepheni Forman, Brush Prairie WA.; John and Gloria Washburn and Paul DiAnn and Russel Washburn, Tillamook; Jim Kathy and Dale Washburn, Elgin; and Kathy's parents Roy and Grace Ziegler, Myrtle Point; Jay and Crystal Connolly, Enterprise; Dale Washburn, Lenette, Michelle and Randy Armstrong, Brush Prairie, WA; Pamela and Zackariah Groshell, Tacoma, WA.; Jody and Erick Pugh, Philomath; Marcia Jones and friend

Larry Sticka, Hillsboro; Marda Graybeal and friend Donna Green, Portland; and David Graybeal, Cheyenne, WY.; cousins who came were Carl and Edna Houseworth, Salem. Edna was the daughter of Emmett and Lexie (Miller) Jones. Norman, Frances and Talia Griffin, Salem; Bill and Barbara (Huston) Moore, Wilderville; and Tom and Louise (Huston) Martin of Sacramento, CA. Norman, Barbara and Louise were grandchildren of Charley and Lottie (Miller) Huston formerly of Heppner.

Irv and Loma May Chalfant from Indiana came the farthest. Paul Jones and Carl Houseworth were the oldest. Russel Washburn was the youngest. Door prizes were drawn by Paul Jones and Marcia Jones.

The first reunion was held at Cape Lookout on the Oregon Coast in honor of the forthcoming 90th birthday of Marvel Jones, who lived to the age of 99. The oldest at that reunion was Marvel Jones and the youngest was Talia Lee Griffin.
