Boardman man sentenced on sex related charges

James Richard Smith of Boardman will receive a 25-year prison sentence following his conviction on sex-related charges in three Oregon counties, according to Morrow County District Attorney Jeff Wallace.

Smith, 63, who resided at the Trail Apartments in Boardman, plead guilty to first-degree sodomy and four counts of first-degree sex abuse before Circuit Court Judge Pro-Tem Ralph Currin on October 24 in Heppner.

"Smith also plead guilty on October 25 to first-degree sodomy and sex abuse in Gilliam County," said Wallace, "and plead guilty to first-degree sodomy and sex abuse in Clackamas County on November 1." He will receive a total prison sentence on the Oregon conviction of slightly over 25 years, said Wallace.

Charges are also pending against Smith in Clark County, Washington, for alleged sexual activity with minors there, said Wallace. After sentencing is completed in Oregon he will be extradited back to Vancouver, WA., where he will stand trial in those cases. If convicted there, he could be sentenced to an additional 180-months' prison term and be declared a sexual psychopath under Washington law. This would result in his incarceration for the rest of his life.

"I expect that he will be convicted in Washington as well, since he has already confessed to the crimes there," said Wallace.

Wallace noted that a large part of the credit for the successful resolution of the case belongs to Boardman Police Chief Greg Sayles, who obtained confessions to the numerous crimes, and handled most of the investigation.

"It was especially nice to have such a strong case in order not to have to put the victims through the ordeal of repeated trials," said Wallace.

Smith moved to Boardman in 1988 from the Portland area after retiring from the Union Pacific Railroad. He had previously been convicted of indecent liberties in Clark County, Washington, in 1981, and had been placed on five years' probation on that charge.

Crystal Minster tells of UN trip

Forty young people were on her bus and many buses from all over the United States made the trip to Washington D.C. and New York City to see many historical sites. Crystal said that seeing all these historical places has made history come to life for her.

At the business meeting plans were made for a food and pie sale on Nov. 26 from 10 a.m. till 2 p.m. at the city hall as a benefit for the Ione Public Library. A guest for the day was Pauline Gorgor of Portland.

Lewis named to state lottery board

Keith Lewis of Heppner has been appointed to the Oregon State Lottery Commission by Governor Barbara Roberts.

Lewis, 59, said that he will be confirmed by the Oregon Senate on Nov. 20 and will be sworn in Nov. 21. He commented "we've never had one (lottery commissioner) east of the mountains before."

Lewis will fill the position vacated by Bill Freele, Salem, who recently passed away. He will serve out Freele's term which expires in December 1992.

Lewis said that his duties will include setting policy and approving games for the lottery.

Lewis moved to Heppner from Baker in 1983 when he retired. He and his wife, Sharon, own the Heritage Land Company real estate business in Pendleton and Heppner.
