BMCC board to fill two spots

The Blue Mountain Community College Board of Directors will have two position openings as of June 30. Directors' terms which will expire are position #3, currently held by Joe B. Green, and position #4, currently held by Thomas N. Able.

Board members have always played an intergral part in the operation of the college. However, as changes in educational roles and funding become more apparent, the importance of strong leadership and educational interest of board representatives has been magnified, said a BMCC spokesperson.

During the next year, in addition to the regular board and budget meetings, the Blue Mountain Community College Board will be involved in a review and possible revision of the college mission statement, a cost management study, and a study to explore the potential for additional resources for the college.
