Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Hughes, chamber manager

It's "pat on the back" time for Judie Laughlin and Heppner T.V. This time of the year both phones are often ringing with St. Patrick's celebration questions. I'm sure Bev Gunderson is still getting Chamber calls also. These people were kind enough to share their phone in the past and it's difficult to retrain people to call Chamber's very own phone number 676-5536. Numerous calls come in for St. Pat's celebration information, fair and rodeo, places to stay in Heppner, relocation information and retirement information, just to name a few. In fact there's a visit from Vintage Motorcycle Club from B.C. scheduled in July.

So, what else is Heppner Chamber doing besides "getting greener every day?" Members are working on the auction and preparing for their annual rose sale to supplement dues income, while running their own businesses and volunteering in many other areas. They are in need of more auction items (1/4 of the proceeds go towards next year's celebration) and any chamber member will take a rose order ($15 for a dozen roses to be delivered April 8.)

Membership dues are coming in and new members are encouraged to join. "It would be terrific to have 100 percent Heppner businesses belong to Chamber and thus be able to offer more workshops, events and programs to meet their business needs." As a non-profit organization, Heppner Chamber of Commerce is dedicated to the local businesses and creating a positive business environment; however, it takes everyone looking ahead in the same direction to do so.

Don't forget...an extra day has been given to use this month...an opportunity to make a difference. How about pulling a weed or two and picking up some trash to help Heppner roll out the green carpet St. Patrick's weekend. Small towns are the greatest.
