

Council agrees to pool busing plan

The Heppner City Council approved a three-fold request from the Heppner Pool Committee at the council's regular meeting Monday night.

The council approved: a request to ask the Willow Creek Park District to undertake the pool project; a request to allow city administrator Gary Marks to assist the park district in the project; and a request to allow the city to participate in busing children to the lone pool for swimming lessons and carry funds forward, if necessary. Arrangements with the lone pool and the Morrow County School District have not yet been made.

The Heppner pool will not open this summer because of a budget shortfall and structural problems with the pool. Council members expressed concern over public safety if children are allowed to swim at the Heppner pool. The pool advisory committee estimated that a plan to bus Heppner children to lone would cost around $2,240. The projected costs would be less than half the estimated costs of opening the Heppner pool for two weeks this summer for swiming lessons only.

City administrator Gary Marks said that projected costs for opening the Heppner pool for a two-week session would be around $4,948. That plan includes $730 for lifeguards and instructors, $2,827 for maintenance and labor, $500 for supplies and $890 for utilities. Marks projects around $600 in receipts, with the remainder coming from property taxes. Since the city has only $3,000 remaining in the 1991-92 budget in pool appropriations, this proposal would create a deficit of $1,945, and the safety concerns would still remain.

Estimated costs for the busing program would include $780 for use of Morrow County School buses and bus drivers' wages, $730 for lifeguards and instructors and $730 for supervisors for the children while they are not in the pool.

The council at first sought to form its own district to fund construction of the pool. But, according to state regulations, the city will not be able to form its own district because the Willow Creek Park District is already in existence.

Summer program for kids planned

The Neighborhood Center will receive a $3,000 grant from the Children's and Youth Services Commission to fund a four-week summer program for children in Heppner.

Grace Drake coordinator of the project, says that the program will consist of on-site activities and field trips to Boardman, Ir-rigon, Monument, Hermiston and places within Heppner. She said the program may help fill the void created by the loss of the Heppner pool.

The program will be held July 6 through 31, five days a week, four hours a day, including lunch. Drake says the program is targeted for low income children six through 14, but children will not be turned away because their families are not low income. The program is planned for around 30 children, she says.

Drake says that each day emphasis will be put on one of five different themes: relationship of towns in the area; daily skills of living together; history, centering on the Oregon Trail (this may include a wagon ride ending with a meal in the Well' Spring area) arts, with hands-on crafts, sculpture, spinning, weaving and dance; and the countryside. Local field trips will include tours of the mill, the courthouse and the nursing home. Bus tours will include the McNary game preserve and the John Day and the Columbia Rivers. "I hope to have bus rides interesting," she added.

Drake has gotten cooperation with Morrow County Mental Health for the daily living segment, the Historical Society, Morrow County Arts and Crafts and the U.S. Forest Service for the countryside segment. "I intend an all-out community effort," said Drake. "Everyone is likely to be asked to help with the program."

Sign-ups for the program will be announced at a later date. For more information or to volunteer contact Drake at 676-9439.

Corrine Lindsay is the chairperson for the Morrow County Children's and Youth Services Commission. Betty Tanner is the president of the Neighborhood Council.

Christian Life Center to offer series on healing dysfunctions

The hottest topics on television talk-shows these days often deals with "dysfunctional" families. Psychologists, counselors and best-selling authors provide us with fascinating insights into how unhealthy family patterns can affect us for a lifetime.

Being part of the best family in the world is something we all dream of, but few experience. Members of the Christian Life Center at 535 W. Morgan St. will be working together for seven weeks on a unique 50-day study called "The Family God Wants Us to Be: Your Prescription for Healthier Church Relationships." This special study focuses on the family of God-the church-and is designed to enable participants to dramatically improve the quality of their family relationships in only 50 days.

Led by Pastor Tim Van Cleave, "The Family God Wants Us to Be" is a 50-day "spiritual adventure" created by The Chapel of the Air Ministries, and is used every year by hundreds of churches all across North America. The program is scheduled to begin on Sunday, March 22 and continue through Sunday, May 10.

During this time the Christian Life Center will focus on a common theme for the entire 50 days, including eight Sundays. Individuals within the church will further the adventure's impact on their lives by completing additional readings and weekly assignments. Sunday sermons will center around common dysfunctional family characteristics and what happens when those same qualities carry over into the church. Pastor Tim Van Cleave will be giving positive suggestions on how to build healthier relationships within the church and within nuclear families.

Adventure participants will receive a personal adventure journal, which contains scripture readings, weekly assignments and a place to record their insights and spiritual progress. As members of the congregation work to build healthier relationships they will learn how to:

"Listen Intently to the Great Physician." Through short daily scripture readings they'll learn what the Bible says about a healthy church family.

"Offer to Others Jesus' Affirming Touch." Once a week, adventurers will speak "on Christ's behalf" to someone else in the church family, offering words of affirmation and support.

"Treat the Blame-Shame Syndrome." By using a short written prayer, adventurers will learn to avoid placing blame on others and two work together instead toward positive solutions to problems.

"Play Their Way out of Unhealthy Competition." Once during the 50-day adventure, participants will perform a new task within the church--one they've never tried before.

"Discover Wholeness in Christ with a Prayer Partner." Adventurers will find one or two others who will meet with them for prayer four times during the study.

In addition to Christian Life Center, many other churches and individuals will be participating in the program as well. Last year more than 250,000 adults and young people ordered adventure journals through The Chapel of the Air Ministries. Their long-standing radio program can be heard locally each Monday through Friday at 9 a.m. over KLWJ 1090 am.

Anyone interested in joining the adventure at Christian Life Center should contact Pastor Tim Van Cleave 676-5448. Visitors are welcome, especially during Sunday morning worship service and throughout the upcoming 50-day spiritual adventure. Services begin at 10:30 a.m.

For information on how you can get another church involved in the adventure, contact The Chapel of the Air Ministries directly at 708-668-7292.

Old fashioned roses garden club topic

"Old Fashioned Roses" was the program presented by Phyllis Anderson at the lone Garden Club meeting at the home of Jean Nelson on Feb. 12. Delpha Jones and Pat Pettyjohn were the hostesses.

Old fashioned roses are becoming very popular with gardeners. Some of the types are the moss rose and the cabbage rose. Others that are not so familiar include the centifolia, the alba, the gallica, the damask, the musk and the China rose. Between 551-479 BC

Locals selected Blazer All-Stars

Harvey Platt of Hillsboro and Mark Labhart of Tillamook have been selected as the Budweiser Blazer Community All-Stars for the month of January. Platt and Labhart were selected because of their long-standing involvement in a wide variety of community service efforts. Gwen Healy, Jeri McElligott and Corrine Lindsay were Heppner Chamber of Commerce nominees.

The Budweiser Blazer Community All-Star program runs from December through April. In each county a chamber of commerce has been designated as the primary contact for the program. Three nominations per county, per month are forwarded to the Portland Trail Blazers, where an independent panel of judges reviews them and selects two individuals to be recognized as the designated All-Stars for each month.

A total of eight community All-Stars will be selected, along with two Budweiser employees who also will be added to the team in recognition of their community service. The complete All-Star Team will be introduced during a special presentation at Memorial Coliseum when the Trail Blazers host the San Antonio Spurs on Sunday, April 12, 1992. The All-Stars will receive a plaque, and a check in the amount of $500 will be donated to the charity of their choice.

Nomination forms for the Budweiser Blazer Community All-Star Team are available at Chamber of Commerce locations throughout Oregon and southwest Washington, and at the Trail Blazer office, 700 NE Multnomah, Portland, OR 97232. Nomination forms are due to the designated primary chapter, for each county, no later than the fifth of the month. All-Stars are announced at the end of each month.

North Lex Livestock

By Melissa McElligott, reporter

The North Lex Livestock club held a meeting at the Krebs' Ranch on February 9. All of the members present gathered on the Krebs' lawn and received information about the tour. Everyone got into pickups and traveled to their sheep operation.

There were about 4,300 ewes. Half of them are done lambing. They will dock their lambs spring break. Some members got the chance of seeing a twin lamb being born.

After that members all drove to a cattle pasture and saw new calves and their mothers. Then they all rode back to Krebs' home where they have a bumper lamb barn. There members looked at the bumper lambs and saw Jessica Krebs' Tye Valley pigs. Refreshments were eaten afterwards.

Members then all gathered for some new news that co-leader Donna Rietmann provided. Later, half of the group walked to see week-old piglets and their mother in another Krebs barn.

There is not another group meeting scheduled as of yet, but a beef meeting was held Feb. 16 at the Paul and Sue Proudfoot home.
