

Tri-county 4-H'ers enjoy annual camp at Cutsforth

Seventy-six young 4-H'ers joined 20 youth counselors and six adult resident counselors at the Tri-County 4-H Camp held at Cutsforth Park June 28 through July 1.

This year's campers had cool drizzly weather, but didn't have the downpours that people in Heppner, Ione and Lexington suffered.

The young campers, from Wheeler, Gilliam and Morrow counties enjoyed classes, crafts, hikes, campfires and "lots of food" during their three-day stay. The week's activities culminated with a special "dream boat" ceremony and a dance Tuesday evening. The campers make their own "dream boats" out of natural resources found at the camp, place a candle on the raft and attach their dreams to it. The children light their candles and set the raft out on the pond at the park. The candles burn quite a while in the darkness and make quite a beautiful scene, said an Extension spokesperson. The kids returned home Wednesday morning.

In addition to the resident counselors, Morrow County Extension Agent Bill Broderick, Wheeler County Extension agent Elva Madden, Sheridan Tarnasky, R.N., Jean Brazell, cook and Kathy Cutsforth and Kendra Martin, cook's helpers, and visiting teachers were on hand for special classes. Visiting were Grant County Extension agent Pete Test, Wheeler County Sheriff Otho Caldera, Gilliam County Extension agent Glenda Madden, Tim Keith, Oregon Department of Forestry, Russ Morgan, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife and teacher Tim McCreary.

Counselor coordinator was Nancy Morter. Youth counselors were Char Coe, Chris Dickenson, Jossie Evans, Kelsie Evans, Sara Greenup, Dani Hill, Jodi Johnston, Tina Kemp, Jenny Krein, Pete Pearson, Rondi Robinson, Whitney Sitton, Phillip Spierkuhn, Alecia Tarnasky, Hud Wilkens, Milne Wilson, Zane Wilson and Brent Wright.

Wayne Evans re-elected president

Wayne Evans of Heppner was re-elected by the Oregon Beef Council as council chairman and Jim Chapman of Klamath Falls as vice chairman. Elected treasurer was John Rosebrook of Beaver-creek, a past council chairman and former treasurer of the Oregon Cattlemen's Association.

Joining the council are Rosebrook, who replaces the late Wally Gaboury, and dairyman John Volbeda of Albany, who will serve the balance of Peter DeHann's term. Volbeda has served the Oregon Dairy Products Commission and as a board member of Oregon Dairy Farmers Association.

Evans announced that new Council members effective July 1 will be Bob Forth of Pendleton and Cal Ransom of Richland. Both were appointed by the director of the State Department of Agriculture.

Forth initiated the "Wrangler Club" membership program for the Oregon Cattlemen's Association and was honored last year with the "President's Award" for outstanding service to the organization. Ransom is a board member of the Oregon Dairy Farmers Association and past president of the Eastern Oregon Dairymen's Association. They replace retiring six-year directors Sue Cauble and dairyman Butch Van Veldhuizen, respectively.

In other business the Oregon Beef council approved a $991,000 budget at the council's annual meeting June 19 for education, promotion and information programs during the 1992-93 fiscal year.

The budget is based upon projected dollar checkoff collections on the sales of cattle in Oregon during the coming year. Fifty cents of every dollar supports national marketing efforts while the balance is used for projects and programs specific to Oregon. The budget is for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1992. Collections during the past year were at a historic low.
